Yesterday 48 sections were retaken on the fronts west of Moscow and in the Donets Basin while last night, according to a supplementary war bulletin, seven more were reoccupied on one central sector of the front.

In the night advance, it was stated, heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy. The regular noon war communique added that fighting continued throughout the entire night.

The Russian offensive moved forward over deep snowdrifts loaded with Nazi land mines.

Fear Normandie Will Be Total Loss

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Fire-gutted and blackened, the ex-luxury liner Normandie lay on her side at her pier today like some tired old derelict who has given up the fight but hope remained that she would again sail the seas.

The word had spread that the Normandie—rechristened the U. S. S. Lafayette when she was taken over by the Navy was a total loss except as scrap.

But a spokesman for the Third Naval District asserted: "The Navy supports no such contention at this time."

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Like a tired beauty whose day of splendor has vanished forever, the $60,000,000 S. S. Normandie rolled slowly over on its port side in the Hudson River early today and was feared a total loss following a five-hour fire that ravaged its once-stately interior.

Tons of water pumped into the 83,000-ton vessel that formerly

Dive Bombers Used In Attack Upon MacArthur

Increasing Use Of Jap Dive Bombers In Bataan Is Reported

BATTLE IS NOW IN TENTH WEEK

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Increasing use of dive bombers over the Bataan battlefields led military experts to assume today that Japan is attempting to "soften up" Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippine forces in advance of another major attempt to wipe out the defenders or crush their resistance.

Despite the rising fury of land fighting and the mounting intensity of artillery fire on both sides, war analysts contend it still is too early to predict the outcome of the Philippine conflict, now in its 10th week.

Invaders Foiled

Time and again during the past few weeks the invaders have launched major drives to encircle and crush the defenders, only to have MacArthur upset the enemy timetable with slashing counter attacks that left the invaders demoralized for days.

MacArthur's brilliant defense of Bataan has amazed and puzzled military experts, who frequently have remarked they were at a loss as to "how he does it."

While these strategists admit that the defenders at any time may be

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Representative Louis E. Graham of Beaver this week helped defeat an $80,000 appropriation for a Walt Disney film depicting Donald Duck paying his income tax.

The film has already been purchased by the treasury department as part of a propaganda drive to candy coat heavy tax payments. The House, however, by a 259 to 112 ballot declined to appropriate the money. Congressman Graham was among those who voted against the appropriation as an unnecessary and unjustifiable increase in the burden already confronting taxpayers of the nation.

One of the first of the mysterious deaths of Nazi generals said BBC, was that of Gen Werner von Fritsch, whose death in the front lines during the Polish campaign has never been compleetly explained.

My neighbor knows the war is on, but seems not to comprehend that there's things to do and there's work to do before this battle will end. It hasn't struck him that some sweet day, unless we get out and scrap there could be bombs dropped right on his place, and wipe us right off the map. The war is so distant he casually says, why should I worry, but say, if we don't wake up, we may all get bopped, its cool, thirty two today.

Forty Merchants Share Dollar Day Thursday

With war time now a matter of fact we get a chance to save an hour's daylight every day, but the merchants of New Castle, more than forty of them, are giving the thrifty shopper an opportunity to save something besides daylight on Thursday, February 12.

On that day they can save money, real hard cash and folding money by taking advantage of the bargains which will be offered in the more than forty stores. Bargains that mean genuine savings and not just penny cutting values.

Dollar Day in New Castle is an institution like your birthday, holidays and the opening of baseball season. By now the New Castle and Lawrence County shoppers know what to expect on Dollar Day and they usually take full advantage of it.

You will know more about the stores and the values they offer by the advertisements in The News just prior to Dollar Day. Listing them in this article would fill several columns. But you'll get some advance information upon the day.

Sales in times like these when prices have growing pains is an usual situation. It means that the local merchants are determined to move a lot of stock and the beneficiary will be you, and you, and you.

Keep the date in mind, Thursday, February 12 and remember that is a day when your dollar does double duty

Vichy Reply Is Not Satisfactory

U.S. Attitude To Be Stiffened

Welles To Discuss Situation With French Ambassador During Day

FEAR FRANCE IS AIDING GERMANY

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—The United States government, it was learned on high authority today, has decided to stiffen its attitude toward France as a result of definite indications that the Vichy regime has been directly or indirectly aiding the Axis forces in Libya.

This government, responsible quarters disclosed, considers entirely unsatisfactory the Vichy reply to American inquiries concerning reported French aid to the Axis, including the shipment of army trucks and food supplies to the Libyan forces of German Field Marshal Rommel.

To Discuss Situation

Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles intends to discuss the situation with French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye late this afternoon. There is reason to believe Welles will call the French envoy sharply to task for what is regarded in American quarters as lack of good faith on tthe part of Vichy in aiding the Axis forces in north Africa.

Unless Vichy ceases this aid to the Axis, there is a strong likelihood the United States will suspend the recently resumed trade relations with French North Africa.

Considerable pessimism is now evident in American quarters concerning the situation in Vichy. It is feared that the group around Marshal enri Petain which favors close collaboration with Germany may be gaining the upper hand.

Japanese successes in the Far East and the British reverses in Libya are believed to be encouraging the pro-Axis group in Vichy to press Marshal Petain for closer collaboration with the Nazis.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Exchange Telegraph News Agency today circulated an Algiers radio broadcast, based on reports from Vichy, claiming that a Japanese fleet has been sighted off Dutch Borneo in the Netherlands East Indies.

The report said it was believed the Japs may attempt to land at Banjermasin on the Borneo south coast.

LONDON, Feb. 10—Authoritative quarters said today that of 18,000 British casualties in recent battles in Libya, 2908 were killed, the remainder being wounded and captured.

ried out in advance in accordance with the Dutch "scorched earth" policy.

Earlier in the war Japanese forces gained a hold on the northern Minahassa sector of Celebes island.

Informed sources in Batavia had predicted the Japanese attack on southwestern Celebes, and said it obviously was aimed at gaining control of the Celebes side of Macassar straits, where the Japs suffered heavy shipping losses a few weeks ago.

The Japanese already dominate the Borneo side of the strait as far south as Balik Papan.

Asks Fleet Action

Asserting that a large portion of the United Nations Pacific fleet now is engaged in non-combatant work, the Netherlands Indies naval information chief today asked for more vigorous fleet activity in the island battle area.

A considerable part of the anti-Axis naval strength in the Pacific now is busy with work which has no direct connection with fighting, he said.

He gave no further explanation of the statement.

In a communication headed "Lessons for the Netherlands East Indies", the naval spokesman said that the remaining part of the United Nations forces will have to be strongly reinforced before Japan's domination of the south seas area can be broken.

Many recent naval battles have proved that the British and other anti-Axis efforts have been severely hampered by a paucity of ships and men.

FEAR NORMANDIE WILL BE TOTAL LOSS

queened it over the Atlantic passenger trade and the incoming tide completed a work of destruction started twelve hours before by sparks from a workman's acetylene torch.

Two hours before the massive liner capsized, Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the Third Naval District, had ordered the ship abandoned by firemen and civilian volunteers when a rapidly-increasing list to port signed its death warrant.

Was Being Refitted

The ship, seized by the government on Dec. 12, was being refitted for service as a naval auxiliary vessel and had been renamed the S. S. Lafayette.

Rear-Admiral Andrews and other investigating agencies ruled out sabotage as a cause of the disaster, which snuffed out one life and sent hundreds of workmen to hosptials and emergency shelters for treatment.

"There is nothing in our inquiry to indicate sabotage," he said.

The end of the Normandie—in the chill, early hours of a winter's morning, with searchlights playing feebly over its dully painted sides—was in bleak contrast to the tumult that greeted its maide visit to New York in 1935.

Keeled Gently Over

The ship came to rest, funnels almost touched the water, almost squarely in the center of a 200-foot gap of water that separates pier 88 from pier 90 at the foot of 50th Street

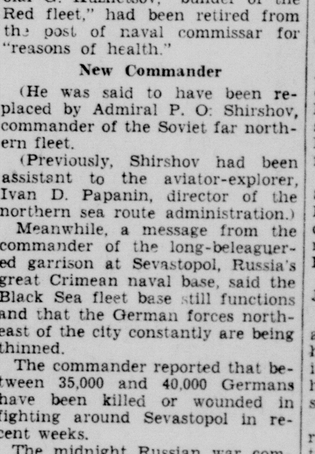

Well-behaved to the last, the Normandie keeled gently over without causing injury to anyone on shore or damage to the pier that berthed it in its years of greatest glory.

A vast clattering of machinery, wrenched loose as the ship "turned turtle," was audible to firemen, police, reporters, and protographers who formed the death watch on the once-mighty ship.

The Normandie, it was feared, was beyond salvage, although officials had earlier stated that the damage caused by the fire—estimtaed at $5,000,000—was "relatively slight" in view of the liner's huge bulk.

As the morning tide rolled in, it also was feared that water would begin to pour down the ship's three stacks and cause irreparable harm to the engineroom.

fleets sank or damaged 140 German warships of various categories and destroyed 276 enemy auxiliary vessels as well as "hundred of transports."

Russian surface and underseas warships and naval bombers were declared to have sunk 81 enemy warships and to have damaged 59 more with shells, torpedoes, bombs and mines up to Jan. 22.

(An International News Service Berne dispatch said the official Russian radio announced Admiral Nikolai G. Kuznetsov, "builder of the Red fleet," had been retired from the post of naval commissar for "reasons of health."

New Commander

(He was said to have been replaced by Admiral P. O. Shirshov, commander of the Soviet far northern fleet.

(Previously, Shirshov had been assistant to the aviator-explorer, Ivan D. Papanin, director of the northern sea route administration.)

Meanwhile, a message from the commander of the long-beleaguered garrison at Sevastopol, Russia's great Crimean naval base, said the Black Sea fleet base still functions and that the German forces northeast of the city constantly are being thinned.

The commander reported that between 35,000 and 40,000 Germans have been killed or wounded in fighting around Sevastopol in recent weeks.

The midnight Russian war communique said the Red army continued to wage "offensive battles" and that Russian troops "advanced and occupied several inhabited localities."

In the Donetz region, it was reported, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's legions achieved a new break-through and recaptured 30 inhabited localities south of Kharkov. Reports of these successes, published by the newspaper Izvestia and Pravda, added that enemy forces there were retreating.

Other dispatches said Russian cavalry spearheads were pushing rapidly toward Dniepropetrovsk, the great power center at the bend of the lower Dnieper river.

(Yesterday's German communique admitted "severe defensive battles" in the Donetz Basin.)

In Smolensk Province

Pravda reported that between Nov. 29 (when the Societ counter-offensive began) and Feb. 7, 80 cities and more than 4,800 towns and villages had been liberated. Yesterday 28 places were recaptured on thhe central front alone.

To date, Pravda added, Moscow Ryazan and Tula provinces have been completely reclaimed, while Kalinite and Leningrad provinces have been largely liberated. Liberation has begun in Smolensk province and in the Ukraine, it was stated.

The paper declared that all recaptured places immediately were fortified against counter-attack.

Senator Norris Adds Another Congress Problem

"Political Headache" For Congress Is Presented By Veteran Senator

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—On top of the "bundles for Congress" campaign, Sen. Norris (I) Neb., today added another "political headache" to congressional woes by raising the issue of whether congressmen are entitled to mileage payments for the present session.

"The money was appropriated in advance at the last session and has already been paid out," Norris said, "but I don't think the members are entitled to it."

"The constitution authorizes mileage only for trips to and from congressional sessions. But the last session simply merged with the current one and the members didn't go home."

The veteran Nebraskan pointed out that the item ran into quite a considerable sum of money, explaining that in his own case the mileage figured around $600 for a round trip to his home.

Norris injected the issue into Capitol Hill discussions while congressmen still were debating the "bundles for Congress" campaign, aimed at ridiculing out of existence recent action of congressmen in voting "pensions for themselves."

Several bills already has been introduced to repeal this provision by removing elective officials from under the federal retirement act.

In addition to his wife, Margaret, formerly of Ellwood City, he leaves a daughter, Louise at home, and sons, John, of Zellenople, and Leo at home.

Four grandchildren survive, and four sisters, Mrs. Andrew Buddie, Mrs Henry Bronson, Mrs. Steve Romaski all of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Stella Richter, of New York; and three brothers, Joseph, of Detroit; Louis, of Dearborn, Mich., and Walter of Uniontown, Pa.

The body is at the Glenn Funeral home, East Grandview avenue, Zellenople, where friends may call.

Funeral requiem mass will be celebrated Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock, from the church, with Rev Fr. P. J. Bernarding, celebrant. Burial will be in a Uniontown cemetery.

Senator Norris Adds Another Congress Problem

"Political Headache" For Congress Is Presented By Veteran Senator

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—On top of the "bundles for Congress" campaign, Sen. Norris (I) Neb., today added another "political headache" to congressional woes by raising the issue of whether congressmen are entitled to mileage payments for the present session.

"The money was appropriated in advance at the last session and has already been paid out," Norris said, "but I don't think the members are entitled to it."

"The constitution authorizes mileage only for trips to and from congressional sessions. But the last session simply merged with the current one and the members didn't go home."

The veteran Nebraskan pointed out that the item ran into quite a considerable sum of money, explaining that in his own case the mileage figured around $600 for a round trip to his home.

Norris injected the issue into Capitol Hill discussions while congressmen still were debating the "bundles for Congress" campaign, aimed at ridiculing out of existence recent action of congressmen in voting "pensions for themselves."

Several bills already has been introduced to repeal this provision by removing elective officials from under the federal retirement act.

Norris warned that if the law was allowwed to remain on the books a "shift" in the balance of power in congress would be forthcoming at the November elections.

"It is wrong and unjust," he said, "and should be repealed."

He recalled that a so-called "salary grab" during President Grant's administration, when congressmen upped their salaries, led to turnover in the makeup of congress at the next election.

Meantime, congressmen were beginning to receive their "bundles," although the Spokane (Wash.) athletic round table—originator of the scheme—recently announced that plans for transportation of the nondescript assortment of articles to Washington had been abandoned.

"Bundles" started pouring in through the mail. Sen. Clark (D) Ida., reported receipt of a pair of socks; a pair of old shoes arrived for Sen. Bone (D) Wash., while his colleague, Sen. Wallgren, received two glass eyes.

ing and unloading of the street cars. Buses do not use the same locations for taking on and letting off passengers.

It is noted that a considerable number of motorists pay little heed to signs which designate bus stopping places, and forbids auto parking.

One year ago today, we had the coldest weather of last winter when the mercury dropped to one above zero. In spite of the fact that this was the coldest day, the winter as a whole was the coldest on record, the mean temperature being below the average.

Monday afternoon, the performance of an automobile at the Mahoning viaduct near Moravia street, quickly drew a crowd of onlookers. Coming down Moravia street hill, the car failed to negotiate the turn on to the bridge properly, and the right wheel climbed a girder about four feet, but did not turn over. A lady passenger sustained a bump near the eye and the car, (not new) came out second best in the collision.

DIVE BOMBERS USED IN ATTACK UPON MacARTHUR

forced to withdraw to one of the American-held fortified islands in Manila Bay for a last stand, the fact remains that MacArthur's forces have repulsed countless desperate attacks while inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

Backed By Corregidor

Meanwhile, MacArthur's men still are backed by the huge and deadly guns on Corregidor and three smaller forts strung strategically across the 11-mile entrance of Manila Bay.

What appeared like the beginning of a siege of the forts by concealed Jap shore batteries subsequently turned into an artillery duel, with American batteries blasting a number of enemy guns into silence.

Previously American guns smashed gun emplacements on the cavite shore before they could go into action, and anaylists point out that it may take the enemy days and even weeks to mount new guns in advantageous spots.

So long as the forts hold out, MacArthur's position cannot be considered hopeless, but experts insist that the battle of the peninsula may come to a sudden and dramatic climax at any time, with remnants of the defending army taking up positions on Corregidor.

WARS ARE NOT WON WITH WORDS

THIS war will not be won with words. It will not be won with talk about sacrifice and privation. Those things the American people will take as a matter of course. This war will be won with work. It will be won by utilizing the potentially limitless American production machines to the absolute limit.

A senate committee, under the chairmanship of Senator Truman, has made its report on the defense effort up to the middle of January. It cites example after example of waste, inefficiency, failure and self-interest. Some high officials proved themselves astoundingly incompetent. Some business men were reluctant to take the steps that all-out war demands. Many labor leaders put their own ambitions and interests above the needs of a nation in peril. The people were apathetic. Too few of us seemed to realize that it is one thing to appropriate tens of billions for defense and war—and a very different and infinitely more difficult thing to turn those billions into the instruments of war.

We must pursue a different path in the future. The appointment of a one-man defense head and the abolition of the indecisive OPM are important steps in the right direction. Now there is only one job for all of us, from the president down to the lowliest worker in the smallest defense plant. That job is to produce—to produce as no nation ever produced before, to work as no people ever worked before.

Look at the American industrial machine. What nation in history has ever been so rich in resources and machines? The motor plants, the coal and metal mines, the oil fields, the power and light systems, the plane makers, the steel mills, the transportation agencies—these and a thousand other enterprises constitute an industrial empire which has long been the envy of an imitating world. This is what free enterprise has given us—this is what we must use to the fullest now.

To fail in this war, on either the home front or the military front, would be death for free enterprise, death for free government, death for all the other freedoms. We are learning, at long last, the terrible, costly mistakes of yesterday. Let them be used to show us the way to unparalleled achievement today and tomorrow..

DIPLOMAT EXCHANGE

Behind the more prominent scenes in war is the difficult, and not often publicized, business of exchanging interned diplomats. For example, the United States State Department is busying itself with the task of reaching an agreement with Japan for the return of Ambassador Grew from Tokyo accompanied by members of his staff.

Japan will ask in exchange the former Japanese ambassador to the United States and the special legate, Kurusu, now living at a health resort near Washington. A feasible route home for the Americans in Japan would be through Siberia to Moscow and then to America by plane through Persia, Egypt and Portugal.

In the case of the Japs, rout back to Japan would seem to be the reverse of this.

BUY MORE WAR BONDS FOR VICTORY

The new record sale of more than a billion of national defense bonds in January is as heartening to the country as to the treasury. The people bought almost twice as much as in December, when there was a rush of purchasers after Pearl Harbor. Total sales top three and a half billions.

Good work, but not enough. For this fiscal year the government will have to borrow about 18 billions to cover the estimated deficit next June 30. About half of this huge sum has already been financed. Nine billions more will have to be borrowed in the next five months. Even at the present rate of sales of defense bonds, the treasury would have to dig up four billions from other sources.

It would be a fine achievement to raise those four billions extra through defense bonds. We can do it, with money left over, by doubling our purchases.

These best of all securities were termed defense bonds last May. But now we are at war. They are war bonds. We are buying them to win the war. If they were called war bonds, perhaps it would help the sales by bringing their meaning home to all. But whatever they're called, let's double our buying and put the sales over the top. And let's start now.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH NATIONAL HEALTH

Any extensive effort to increase the number of physicians graduated each year, as has been proposed in some quarters, will mean a lowering of professional standards, and the ultimate effect will be serious both on the army medical service and on service to the people, the American Medical Association warns.

In this country, under our system of private medicine, the people have been given a quality of health service unequalled elsewhere. Standards for admittance to practice have been high and have been steadily raised. That is why this country has become the world center of medical research and education—and it is also the reason for the tremendous improvement in the general average of public health which has taken place in the last few decades.

Various specific suggestions which have been made for speeding up the production of doctors seem impractical no less than unwise. It has been suggested, for instance, that summer vacations be eliminated so that students could give all of the year to study. But that would mean that the high proportion of students who must finance themselves in whole or part, would have to give up their work or find finance elsewhere. It has also been suggested that the tempo of training be upped—but that would require slow and difficult readjustments in our medical schools, along with great expansion of teaching and technical staffs.

We can't take chances with this nation's health. "Super-speed" medical training looks like one of those superficially attractive ideas which won't stand analysis.

The year 1941 didn't end so well for the Nazis as it started and we have a hunch that the year 1942 isn't going to end as well for the Japs as it started.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GRANDMOTHERS CAN BE USEFUL

Day by day, as the war goes on, more grandmothers will be caring for children. Some of these children are left by men in the armed forces, and some by women at work. Usually the grandmother, when she has sole responsibility, does a good job of it, especially when she gets the child young enough.

But many grandmothers, especially those who have sons in the armed service or away in defense work, are tempted to pamper the grandchildren. In her attempt to prove her love she can do much harm. Grandma, try to keep in mind your responsibility for bringing up these children to be strong, healthy and well disciplined in right living. You want them to be good citizens now and to continue to grow into good citizens. Try to bring these children up with the same wise discipline by which you guided your own children.

The father and mother of your grandchildren may have learned some wise modern facts and ways about choosing foods for them, cultivating proper eating habits and other good health habits. Do go on training the grandchildren according to these rules.

Importance of Insight

You will find, Grandma, that your love, sympathy, gentleness, insight and understanding of the child will go far in winning his cooperation, be the youngster two or sixteen.

Also you will observe that scolding the child is the worst possible thing you can do. Make only a few rules but wise and necessary ones. Hold the child strictly to these few rules. No use to make any rules or commands you cannot effectively enforce. Just remember how well it worked with your own children when you kept calm, spoke softly and were very generous with approvals when they did right.

Let me warn you, Grandma, against lecturing the older children or complaining to them that they do not help you enough or obey you as they should. Try to avoid such expressions as, "You ough to have done this," or "You ought not to have done that." Avoid the suggestion, "If you loved me you would always do what I want you to do." This may be true, but your job is to win their love and, therefore, their coveted cooperation.

If you have a teen-aged grandchild in your care you will be in-

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE WHY OF THE DEFICIT

The Post Office Department makes its annual complaint, that if it hadn't been for the free mail it had to handle there wouldn't have been a deficit. The department reports a deficit of $24,117,812 for the year ending last June 30, 1941, but discloses a surplus of $44,986,912 would have been possible if it had been reimbursed for free services provided for government agencies and others.

Actually the Post Office Department had an all-time high in revenue, collecting $812,827,375. Adding the departments' own figures shows the mail handled free would have needed $59,004,724 in postage. The big question is how much of this free mail was legitimate under postal regulations and how much was franked but should have been paid for.

For years there have been accusations that members of Congress have permitted their frank privileges to be used to send out material that never should have been permitted. In the last year there has been an unusual amount of this kind of criticism and investigation has turned up some unsavory situations. The questionable cases are just another way of gouging the public.

MULES AND DENOMINATIONS

A PCA official in lower South Carolina was visited by a negro farmer who wished to borrow some money to make a crop.

"How many mules have you?" asked the official as he began filling out the application blank.

"Fo', Yassuh, I'ce got fo'," the old darky replied.

Babtis', Meth'dis, Presbytarium an' 'Piscopalium," the negro replied.

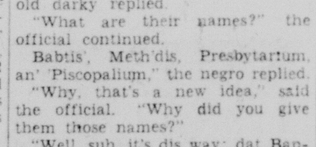

"Why, that's a new idea," said the official. "Why did you give them those names?"

"Well, suh, it's dis way: dat Baptis mule he jes like to git in de creek an' wade 'round, but when he gits out of de water, he won't do nothin'. Dat Meth'dis' mule, all he do is ter holler an' holler, 'an den he don't do nothin'. Dat Presbytarium mule, he's so sot in his ways he never do nothin' till he wants to anyway. UNEDUCATED PARENTS

"I stand well in my classes at high school, but the more I learn about our language the more sensitive I become to the errors of my parents, especially since I learned that a refined boy lately attentive to me at school has been warned by one of the girls that my family is very 'common'. I have since grown morbid on the problem as to how I can marry above my class."—Charlotte.

Answer: You ,not your parents, will establish your "class". Shunning you on account of your parents' disadvantages might be a shallow boy's trick, but never a real man's. Become a career girl and make "Who's Who" rather than the Social Register your goal. That is the surest solution of your problem. Hundreds of girls from humble homes and lowly parents are becoming important secretaries, authors, artists, actresses. Having thus established themselves, they attract professional men who, if genuine, are interested in a girl's present attainments rather than in her background. Their chief peril is that they,too, often attract also the rich playboys, who appreciate talent because it has been unknown to them in their home life, but who are proverbial failures as husbands and fathers.

Your letter indicates an ambition for and appreciation of culture which will, if you apply yourself, raise you far above the level of such small minds as may now be stooping to comment on your parents' use of grammar, syntax and rhetoric.

VERY RESERVED

The movie was crowded. One man, missed by the usher, wandered helplessly, looking for a place. Eagerly he peered through the darkness. Then he sighed with relief. He had found one.

He bent over towards the vacant seat, touched the shoulder of the man sitting on the other side, and whispered, "Is this seat reserved?"

"Yes, I think it must be," was the reply. "It hasn't said a word."

In following the crowd there is always the danger of being trampled upon when it changes it's mind and backtracks.

Uncle Sam's Many Agencies Confuse Us
Bureaus And Departments Now Total 500
Many Large Units Have Been Sub-Divided

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Uncle Sam's executive departments, agencies, administrations, bureaus, units, divisions, councils, boards, corporations, authorities and miscellaneous offices now number approximately 500. A list of them, with their addresses and telephone numbers, has just been handed out to the press. Additions to the scroll have been too rapid of late for any standard work of reference, like the Congressional Directory, to include 'em all. The up-to-date list covers 13 single-spaced typewritten pages. I counted a page and then multiplied by 13 for my estimated total of 500.

Most of these outfits split up into sub-divisions—some into dozens of 'em and even the comparative peewees into several each.

They're scattered among 26 different telephone exchanges.

Legislative and judicial set-ups don't figure in the catalogue, which is executive exclusively. If anybody has business to transact with some congressional group or one of some court's creation he has to hunt elsewhere for his information.

One beauty of the situation is that it's customary to refer to the entire aggregation of executive administrations by their various initials. For example, suppose a visiting cattleman calls at the Office of Agricultural Defense Relations, known as the OADR, to discuss a problem that's worrying him. The OADR quickly ascertains that, as a livestock raiser, he's inquired at the wrong counter, so it politely directs him to consult the AHD, and it's up to him to guess that AHD means the Animal Husbandry Division.

Guessing Game

Such institutions as the ICC and the TWA have been sufficiently advertised for the average citizen to have learned that they're the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority, respectively, but how's he to know that BEW'S the Board of Economic Warfare or that the OFF's the Office of Facts and Figures?

Is it any wonder that out-of-town folk, in the capital on wartime missions, find themselves rattled? Why native Washingtonians can't make sense out of the confusion. Indeed, the very government workers themselves are puzzled by it. An official of the NDMB (National Defense Mediation Board) dispatches one of his undeslings on an errand to the NDRC (National Defense Research Committee) and the poor clerk hasn't an idea where to look for it.

Newspaper headwriters are largely responsible for the initialization evil. A name like the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services doesn't fit conveniently into a front page headline, so the desk editor abbreviates it into ODHWS. It doesn't mean anything to the paper's readers, but these are emergency times, so they mustn't be too critical.

The situation is complicated by the fact that a considerable number of the agencies in question are just moving or are soon to move out of Washington into towns in the sticks, under the presidential order scattering 'em, since the capital's so full up that it's suffocating.

Nevertheless, it's a severe jolt to a seeker after the NDMB's real nonicker (National Defense Mediation Board) and whereabouts to locate its headquarters in the city's southwesterly area, only to find out that its been transferred to the heart of Maryland. Some of 'em are going farther than that, too—away out to the midwest or more so.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan has won his point.

Notified that the war department had asked for bids on 1,000 rubber mats for cuspidors, he turned the matter over to the special Senate committee investigating national defense.

"Here's 3,000 pounds of rubber being asked for," said the senator, "when there's such an acute shortage of rubber that people can't even buy tires for their automobiles.

"Economy ought to be practiced inside as well as outside the defense machine."

Senator Vandenberg felt gratified when assured that the purchase of the mats had been cancelled.

Justified Resentment

Washington, Feb. 10.

MUCH has been written about the lost capacity for indignation of the American people concerning the conduct of their elected representatives in Washington. For the past eight years it has seemed that nothing could pierce their indifference; that those in authority could break almost any precedent and violate with impunity the most elemental laws of propriety.

FALSE pretense, broken promises, blatant demagoguery all went unrebuked. So completely had New Deal policies anesthetized the people that there seemed no limit to what could be done. All of which makes the more encouraging the popular resentment manifested in various parts of the country over the recent action of Congress in voting retirement pensions to its own membership. This, considering the period, was, of course, a shocking thing to do, but for a while it appeared that, like so many other shameless performances, after the usual denunciation, it would be accepted, too.

HOWEVER, it has not turned out quite that way. No sooner had the President signed the bill than the people began to wake up. Ridicule as well as abuse began to pour in on members of Congress. Out in Spokane, Wash., the Athletic Round Table started its "Bundles for Congress" movement. Whatever happens said the club president, "our ailing Congressmen must be made comfortable." Other organizations made themselves heard from and a bill for repeal was introduced in the House. The County Officers' Association of the State of New York passed a resolution denouncing the Congressional action and favoring the repeal.

REPRESENTATIVE SMITH, of Ohio, who introduced the repeal bill, has now presented a petition for a House vote on his proposal. This is a direct reflection of public resentment and is an exceedingly healthy sign. This summer and fall every member of the House and

They'll march the streets with jauntier stride
Henceforth wherever they go.
They'll tell their tales with a bit more pride
When the hair of them turns to snow.
And whether it's land or the sky or the sea
They are ordered their posts to take,
The Marines forever will braver be
For that glorious fight at Wake.

There's a little more bulge to that coat of blue
Then has ever before been seen.
And a little bit more for each boy to do
As a U. S. A. Marine.
For whether it's ocean or sky or sea
Where the shells about them break,
The Marines will carry the memory
Of that glorious fight at Wake.

Just a little more lustily now they'll sing
Their rousing, marching song.
And a little more courage to duty bring
When they battle to right a wrong.
For wherever there's need of them, land or sea,
Or sky with the flag at stake,
The Marines will fight with the memory
Of that glorious fight at Wake.

Savage Fighting In Philippines

Heavy Odds Against U. S. Defenders Of Bataan Peninsula

TOTAL OF 163 JAP PLANES SHOT DOWN

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Following is the text of the War Department's 99th communique:

"Philippine theatre — In a message to the War Department, Gen. MacArthur emphasized the grim determination of his American-Pilipino troops.

"The identification of five veteran Japanese divisions on Bataan Peninsula, in addition to many other supporting troops, and the reported landing of reinforcements in the Lingayen Gulf areas, indicate the heavy odds against them.

"Fighting in Bataan during the past 24 hours was intermittent but of a particularly savage nature. The enemy suffered heavy casualties.

"During the past 24 hours our troops shot down seven enemy planes. This brings the total hostile aircraft positively confirmed as destroyed in the Philippines since the outbreak of the war to 163. Many others were hit and probably destroyed, but their loss has not been definitely confirmed.

"Seige fire directed against our forts from concealed enemy batteries along the Cavite shore continued. Our counter battery fire met with some success.

"Hawaii—The commanding general, Hawaiian department, reports that the United States army transport Royal T. Frank was sunk by a torpedo fired by an enemy submarine in the Hawaiian area on January 28. Twenty-nine persons are missing and believed lost. Thirty-three survivors have reached an Hawaiian port.

"The Frank was a small interisland freighter of 224 net tons, operating in Hawaiian waters. It normally carried a limited number of passengers.

"Netherlands Indies—In a relatively minor aerial action a small formation of American army P-40 fighting planes encountered a flight of Japanese bombers. In the ensuing combat one enemy plane was destroyed. None of our planes was damaged.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Behind  our armed forces
. . . the steady flame of Natural Gas

To arm and equip our fighting men . . . on land, on sea and in the air . . . this area—and Natural Gas—long ago assumed their vital role in production for war.

Mounting orders—doubled, trebled—for guns, tanks, armorplate, planes, ships, motors, a hundred war essentials, have been pouring into this industrial center, placing upon Natural Gas and other fuels new challenges for faster and faster production in scores of processes requiring industrial heat.

Your Natural Gas Company long ago geared itself to the urgent needs of defense and war. During 1940 and 1941 it was getting set for a greatly increased load—expanding facilities in every direction. Peak delivery in 1941 reached record levels.

Yet with all this industrial demand, it continued to serve its normal domestic and commercial gas users.

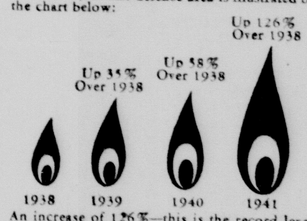

How has this been possible? By drilling hundreds of new wells, more than three times the average of the previous three years; building new transmission and field pipelines and compressor stations; and storing vast quantities of Gas underground. For 1942, this company has further plans, involving continued tremendous investment in these important facilities.

All this to protect you as a Gas user and to give every possible impetus to the pyramiding needs of war industry.

All this to make sure that our fighting forces—calling for planes, tanks, ships, guns—do not go unanswered!

Gas is vital to war industries

The tremendous increase in use of Natural Gas for industry in this defense area is illustrated by the chart below:

An increase of 126%—this is the record level met and being met by your Natural Gas Company as a result of the War.

Natural Gas is vital to war industries . . .
Use it wisely!

Civilian Flyer In Air When Japs Attacked Tells Of Experiences

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HONOLULU, Feb. 9 — Probably the first civilian attacked in the war between Japan and the United States was a tall, slim, 51-year-old lawyer of Honolulu named Roy A. Vitousek.

Vitousek, a civilian flyer, and his 17-year-old son, Martin, a student at Punahou High School were up in a small private plane, taking a Sunday morning spin, when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and nearby military objectives.

Discussing his remarkable experience today, Vitousek readily admitted he and his son had a miraculous escape from death. He said he was too busy at the time to become frightened. It was the most unusual airplane flight he had ever taken that he will never forget it.

The enemy fired at Vitousek's plane with machine-gun bullets but didn't hit it, and he succeeded in making a safe landing. By the time he did, bombs were thudding all around the waterfront.

His Own Story

Here is Vitousek's own story, as related to International News Service:

"Accompanied by my son, I took up a single-motor Aeronca plane on the morning of December 7. It was a bright, sunny morning and the visibility was excellent. It was a perfect day for a ride.

"I was at the controls. I flew the plane over Waikiki Beach and along over the shore line and then came back and made a landing at the John Rogers Airport at 7:45 a. m.

"A few minutes later we took off again, passing Fort Kamehameha, which protects Pearl Harbor, and headed out a short distance to sea. Then we turned and came back.

"Suddenly my son said, 'Dad, it looks like a fire has started at Pearl Harbor.' I looked. I could see planes above the harbor and saw black smoke rolling up from locations on Ford Island, which is in the center of Pearl Harbor.

"Two minutes later I saw explosions at Hickam Field, one of the Army's big flying fields. Timber was spouting into the air but I could see no fire.

Realized Its Significance

"There must have been twenty-five or more planes in the air over that area. I realized it was an attack, a Japanese attack.

"I was flying at about 1,100 feet. The planes attacking Hickam Field came up out of their dive and swooped right in behind my small plane. They were below me, flying no more than 800 feet from the ground.

"At the same time another group of enemy planes was zooming in from the sea.

"I was close enough to the planes beneath me to see their markings. I could see a red ball on the fuselage of the enemy planes. Being above them, I couldn't make out the wing markings.

"I turned my plane and headed off at an angle. Two planes of a big Japanese formation separated from this group and headed after me. They were on my tail. I gave my plane the gun and went up to 1,600 feet.

"One of the two Jap planes following our plane cut down, banked and machine-gunned the inter-island planes of the Hawaiian Airways.

Jap Plane Misses

"I don't know exactly what the other Jap plane did because he was back of me and I was very busy. He fired at me—but missed.

"I was the only one in the air at the time. It was exactly 7:55 a. m. I looked at my watch.

"Suddenly this fellow went right by me and then, dropping lower machine-gunned the hangars at the John Rogers Airport which houses private planes. He killed Tyce.

(Robert Tyce, operator of this civilian airport, was machine-gunned as he started to spin the propellor of a plane.)

"The Jap proceeded straight ahead and machine-gunned a road, killing a few children.

"I was up 1,600 feet, circling about. I didn't dare come down. Now the enemy planes were too thick below. My son, Martin, and I discussed the situation; Martin was quite cool.

"Then all the planes in my vicinity disappeared. They went on toward Hickam Field and Pearl Harbor, strafing and bombing both places.

"I saw one Jap plane hit. It dropped in flames.

"I decided to come down. I landed at John Rogers Field about 8:10 a. m.

"They told me the Japs had gotten Tyce. I said, "Scatter the planes." There were about thirty planes on John Rogers Field. They did it, so the planes would not be in the hangars if the Japs came back.

"I hastened to town and warned civilians. I went to the Honolulu police station where the police asked me to take messages to radio station KGU and KGMB. The messages told the police were were under attack and ordered them to report to headquarters.

"When I returned to the police station, Police Chief W. A. Gabrielson was there. I offered him my services and I have been with him ever since. I am now an assistant chief of police."

Asked if he was frightened when the Japs attacked him, Vitousek said:

"I didn't have time to be frightened. There was too much work to do, handling the plane in the emergency. You see my plane had no armament, no guns and had a top speed of only 100 miles an hour.

"The remarkable thing to me, as I now think it over, was that my son and I could talk the situation over calmly while right in the thick of the attack. I had the alternative of high-tailing is for a landing place or making a crash landing near a park.

His Calculation Works

"I figured the Japs had a single purpose, definite objectives to attack, and that they were not after me. My problem was to keep out of their way. I thought I'd have a better chance if I did that, and that's exactly what I tried to do."

Vitousek was not driving his own private plane at the time. He was trying out one owned by the Gambo Flying Service.

Vitousek hasn't been up since—not that he wouldn't like to but because military authorities have grounded all civilian planes. As chairman of a group of about sixty civilian flyers, Vitousek has offered their services to the Army but so far no action has been taken. The type of flying now required in defending Hawaii from another attack requires skill and military knowledge which the average civilian pilot does not possess.

Congressional Leaders Seek To Allay Current Heat In OCD Section Debate

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Congressional leaders today ordered a cooling off period for their legislators, frankly hoping that such a respite will serve to allay some of the current heat on Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's section of the Office of Civilian Defense.

The strategy became known when Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn., chairman of the senate appropriations deficiency subcommittee, disclosed that consideration of the $100,000,000 OCD supply bill has been delayed for a few days".

Uproarious Debate

The bill was sent to the senate after an uproarious house spent two days in a verbal barrage against Movie Star Melvyn Douglas, rhythmic dancer Maryis Chaney and other OCD employees and then climaxed it all by formally writing in a ban against use of any of the funds for "dancers, fan dancers, street shows or theatrical performances".

So anti-artistic had the house become, in fact, that it also banned payment of $80,000 to Walt Disney for a movie short about income taxes after one member urged "billions for defense but not a buck for Donald Duck".

In addition to eliminating these amendments, senate leaders sought to prevent a repetition of the bitterness engendered in house debate over an asserted "38 social friends of Mrs. Roosevelt drawing down $160,000 a year in OCD".

Seek To Suppress Debate

That there will be some discussion of all this on the senate floor was a foregone conclusion, but administration chiefs were sure it would be on a less uproarious plane and thus less conducive to unfavorable publicity.

Since the present bill provides money for air raid equipment and not salaries, the anti-artist amendment was something of a gesture. But sometime soon, probably this month, OCD must come to congress for regular appropriations—and the battle will then start all over again.

Rep. Taber (R) N. Y., ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee and a leader in the fight against what he called "parasites and leeches on the federal payroll", gave notice that at time he will seek to write a similar restriction into the law.

Rep. Dies (D) Tex., chairman of the committee on un-American activities, meanwhile, said that his group has OCD under an intensive study and will issue a formal report on the matter soon.

Rep. Shafer (R) Mich., proposed creation of a new cabinet post—"a secretary of rhythmic dancing".

Rep. Bennett (R) Mo., who said "if Miss Chaney is worth $4600 a year, Sally Rand should be worth $25,000," read on the floor a telegram from Miss Rand, offering to take the job and change the name of her famous fan dance to "the Nude Deal".

MORE JAPANESE TROOPS LANDING ON SINGAPORE

has maintained heavy pressure and has continued to infiltrate this area.

"Despite stubborn resistance there has been some further withdrawal of our forces.

"On the north coast of the island there was some enemy machinegun fire during the night and slight enemy shelling."

The new withdrawals were announced as the Japanese hurled increasing hordes of troops into the battle and Singapore struggled for its life against the swarming invaders.

More Japs Land

Unofficial reports from the battle line revealed that the Japanese during the night strongly reinforced their original strong landing force on the northwest sector of the island.

The reinforcements were brought across the Strait of Johore from the Malayan mainland after the British defenders were forced to fall back under continuous Japanese bombing and artillery blows.

Today a furious battle was raging as the defenders sought to halt the progress of the Japanese.

(A Vichy radio broadcast heard in London said Japanese landings on the northeast portion of Singapore Island were continuing.

(If this is substantiated, it would appear the Japs are landing in the Changi Peninsula area from Palau Ubin Island, situated in the eastern estuary of the Strait of Johore.

Reports from the battle area on the northwest section of the island stressed that the Japanese divebombing and artillery bombardments continued without respite.

They added that the defending forward line had been shortened and that reinforcements were moving up to meet the Japanese assaults.

LONDON, Feb. 10 — Japanese troops captured British positions at the Singapore end of the Johore Causeway by using flame-throwers, the London Evening Standard reported today.

LONDON, Feb. 10—Two formations of Japanese heavy bombers were over Singapore city this morning but it was impossible to see the planes or to judge what damage their bombs caused owing to a thick pall of smoke which covered the entire island, Exchange Telegraph Company reported from Singapore at 9:13 a. m. (EWT).

Explosions were heard intermingled with the spiteful bark of anti-aircraft fire—but both the planes and gunners were shooting blind.

It was announced that 51 persons were killed and 262 injured in yesterday's raids.

Pessimism In London

LONDON, Feb. 10—Deep pessimism today replaced yesterday's confident outlook over the future if Singapore.

While the Berlin radio reported that the Japanese commander of enemy invasion forces had handed a surrender demand to General A. E. Percival, Chief of the Singapore garrison, London confirmed additional enemy landings and even admitted the attackers may have repaired the causeway connecting the island with the Singapore mainland.

Such an eventuality had not been anticipated when the Imperial defenders of Malaya crossed to Singaport for a last stand and blasted huge chungs out of the concrete viaduct.

"There is very little comfort to be had out of the Singapore situation," a spokesman admitted.

"We have no confirmation that the enemy has repaired the causeway, but this is conceivable."

Tokyo claims that Japanese spearheads are now only five miles from the borders of Singapore City were believed, exaggerated, however. At the closest point, the enemy is believed to be at least ten miles away.

Hand-to-hand fighting apparently occurred in the northwest corner of the island where it is known that in at least one instance British forces threw the Japanese out of captured positions.

As the day progressed with only fragmentary news from Singapore except for the terse army bulletin, there was no indication of any successful British counter-offensive

WEATHER BUREAU ON STANDARD TIME AND NOT NEW WAR TIME

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 10.—It was bad enough when the weather bureau had to curtail its daily reports, but now, it seems, the bureau can't even give you the correct time.

The Pittsburgh weather office operates on standard time, just as it has for 64 years through wars, storms and floods. An official explained that to change to the fast time, the bureau would jumble its record like a jigsaw puzzle.

Dogfish, formerly considered of no commercial value, are now the principal source of vitamin oils produced in British Columbia, says the department of commerce.

List Nominees For Motion Picture Awards

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10.—Two sisters today vied in friendly rivalry for Hollywood's top honor—the motion picture academy award for acting.

The sisters, Joan Fontaine and Olivia DeHavilland, were among the five actresses nominated for the award, Joan for her work in the psychological drama, "Suspicion," and Olivia for her performance in "Hold Back The Dawn."

Nominated with them were Bette Davis, already a two-time winner of the award, for her role in "The Little Foxes;" Greer Grson for the part she portrayed in "Blossoms in the Dust;" and Barbara Stanwyck, for her star performance as the strip tease queen in "Ball of Fire."

Miss Fontaine won a nomination, but not the award, last year on the basis of her first starring vehicle, "Rebecca." Two years ago Miss DeHavilland was nominated for the supporting role award in her role of Melanie in "Gone With The Wind."

The five nominated for the actor's award were Gary Cooper, for his "Sergeant York;" Robert Montgomery for his role in "Here Comes Mr. Jordan;" Cary Grant for his work in "Penny Serenade;" Walter Husfon for his work as the devil in "All That Money Can Buy;" and Orson Welles for his "Citizen Kane."

Welles was nominated, too, for directing honors for "Citizen Kane." Other directors nominated for the award were Alexander Hall for "Here Comes Mr. Jordan;" John Ford for "How Green Was My Valley;" William Wyler for "The Little Foxes;" and Howard Hawks for "Sergeant York."

The ten pictures nominated for the award of "outstanding motion picture of the year" were:

"Blossoms in the Dust," "Citizen Kane," "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," "Hold Back The Dawn," "How Green Was My Valley," "The Little Foxes," "The Maltese Falcon," "One Foot In Heaven," "Sergeant York," and "Suspicion."

Walter Brennan, Charles Coburn, Donald Crisp, James Gleason and Sidney Greenstreet were nominated for the award for the "best performance by an actor in a supporting role."

Supporting role actresses nominated were Sara Allgood, Mary Astor, Patricia Collinge, Teresa Wright and Margaret Wycherly.

Mrs. French Tells Rotarians Of China

Mrs. Arthur French, Presbyterian missionary, who with her husband was stationed on Hainan Island until May of last year, and who returned to this country recently with him, gave Rotarians an interesting insight into what is going on in China, at its weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Monday at noon. Mrs. French is a former New Castle girl, nee Evelyn Winger, and with her husband, is now residing at 304 Fairmont avenue.

Rev. and Mrs. Winger left Hainan Island, off the coast of southern China last May, and curiously enough, were able to get out of the country by truck and boat through the courtesy of the Japanese government, their journey being a hard one.

A few weeks ago, they were reported by the Chinese government to have been slain, along with other missionaries on the island, and perhaps would have been, had they not gotten out of the country when they did.

The Chinese people, she stated, have long been exploited by their rulers, and have been brought up to a philosophy that it matters little who was ruling them, as long as they had their little piece of land to work. Under their present ruler, Chiang-Kai-Shek, more progress towards real Democracy has been made, and she predicted that China would turn to Christian leaders for help after the war, although that religion was at present the smallest in the country, about two millions being Christian.

They were in Hainan when it was taken by the Japanese in 1939, Mrs. French stated, the Japanese moving in one morning and taking possession without a struggle, although there was some guerilla guerilla fighting afterwards, a retiring, rear-guard action being fought by the few Chinese soldiers stationed on the island, who were illy-armed with a few machine guns.

She stated that when Japan first moved in on China in 1937, the country-side was deluged with leaflets, telling the Chinese that they, the Japs, were coming to liberate them from the yoke of the white people, but that the Japanese have exploited them more cruelly than any overlord ever had done in the past.

The Chinese, for many centuries, have been a peace-loving people and their wants have been most simple, she said. It has been hard to get them stirred up to the point of wanting to fight for their freedom, simply because they have so little interest in governmental affairs and cared so little about who ruled them.

In spite of the fact that they have been so carelessly governed in the past, the people as a whole are very law-abiding, submitting to the rules laid down by the village leaders. Graft has been rampant throughout the government, due to the Chinese philosophy that to doubt a Chinaman's honesty is one of the grossest insults. She illustrated this point by stating that in the old western days of our country, if one called a man a liar, he would shoot you at the first opportunity. In China if one calls a man a liar, he shoots himself. This has enabled their rulers to exploit them without fear of retribution.

URGES MEAT OUTPUT RISE

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO.—The nation needs an immediate increase in production of meats and fats to gird the war effort and the big livestock expositions scheduled throughout the nation for 1942 play a vital role in the program. This was the word brought back to San Francisco by Harold F. DePue, general manager of the Grand National Livestock Exposition whose premiere in the "Cow Palace" last November was one of the major livestock events of the year.

Movie Industry Classified Essential To War Production

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Along with medicine, science, dentistry and varied forms of engineering professions the motion picture industry today found itself classified as "essential to war production" and as a result key men in the film world may be granted deferment from the draft.

Classification of the movies in the essential category was ordered by Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, at the request of Lowell Mellett, coordinator of government films.

Gen. Hershey explained that the ruling was not a "blanket deferment." He said that the decision as to whether a movie star, writer or director was "essential" to film production would have to be passed on by local draft boards. It was pointed out that placing the industry in the "essential" class would give the movie star the right to ask for deferment because of such classification.

Mellett wrote to Hershey that the film business had an important function in the maintenance of public morale. In reply the selective service director said:

"In view of the statements contained in your letter with respect to the essential character of the motion picture industry, I shall inform the agencies of the selective service system that the continuance of motion picture production is in certain aspects essential to the national health, safety and interest, and in other phases essential to war production."

Selective service officials explained that several fields had been previously classified as essential to war production. Among them were medicine, dentistry, certain fields of science and the engineering professios.

The draft officials emphasized that Congress alone had the right to issue any "blanket deferment" and that power could not be usurped by the selective service board. Placing an industry in the essential class simply means, they said, that the individual seeking deferment may use as a claim for exemption the fact that he is employed in such an industry. Each case will be handled individually by the local draft board.

George J. Schaefer, chairman of the motion picture war activities committee, said that Hershey's ruling would mean deferment to actors, directors, writers, producers and technicians, loss of whose services "would cause a serious loss of effectiveness" in film production.

Schaefer said there was no intention of asking "blanket" deferments and that exemption will be sought only for a "negligible" number of persons occupying key positions. He said that selective service officials in California will be asked to defer men in the industry "who cannot be replaced."

Selective service officials said that the responsibility of "making and presenting claims for deferment is upon the motion picture industry and the determination of necessary men is one for the local boards and appeal agencies."

The Great Game Of Politics

one third of the Senate come up for renomination and election. A record of having voted for or acquiesced in this Congressional pension proposal is likely to be a real political liability. A considerable number of Congressmen, looking forward to fights in close districts, are anxious to rid themselves of this weakness.

THE average Congressman has no desire to present his opponent in either primary or general election an opportunity to make the charge that in the midst of a great national crisis, when every non-war expenditure should be "cut to the bone," he voted himself a pension. Clearly, that will not be an easy charge to handle when pressed by a vigorous opponent who, as he is sure to do, tells the voters that if they send him to Congress instead of the cringing incumbent he will vote to repeal this indefensible act. Visualizing this kind of attack it is not strange the repeal movement should find favor with many sitting members.

THE thing that puts them in a particularly vulnerable position in this matter is the effort to sneak it through without a roll call. They succeeded in doing this in the House, and would have done so in the Senate but for Senator Byrd, of Virginia, who made a protest and demanded a roll call. He was supported by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and a number of others, but the vote showed 47 for the pensions and only 24 against. Of course, popular feeling may evaporate. The whole thing, like many others, may be forgotten in a short time and the repeal proposal be abandoned. But at the moment members of Congress are sweating dreadfully over the situation.

AND it is not lessening their discomfort that this pension vote in their own interests has centered public attention more strongly upon other acts which disregard the declared policy of the President that war expenditures necessitate rigid reduction in normal expenditures. Instead, one branch of Congress or the other has passed bills which involve so profligate a use of the public funds as to endanger the credit of the country and threaten to nullify every effort to maintain even a semblance of financial equilibrium.

FOR example, there is the proposal to pension all civilian workers—or their widows—who were engaged in construction of the Panama Canal twenty-eight years ago. This would add close to two million a year to the pension load. Through insistence of Senator Pepper, of Florida, it was jammed through the Senate and now goes to the House. But, previously, the House had passed two pension bills for widows, children and parents of World War veterans, "without regard to cause of the veteran's death." These bills are now under Senate consideration. If passed they will ultimately add billions of dollars to the pension load and wipe out the last vestige of the pension reductions of 1933. Various other proposals involving free war insurance for civilians as well as soldiers, free mail privileges and reduced railroad rates for all members of the armed forces, etc., etc., are in the offing.

IN brief, the trend of Congress is toward an expenditure of the public funds along pension lines so unrestrained as to threaten financial chaos. There is no surer way to weaken our war effort and aid our enemies than unchecked continuation in this direction. The popular resentment over the self-pensioning vote is in the national interest. And it is in the national interest that this resentment should not subside. Congressmen, whether Democrats or Republicans, who by support of these proposals are throwing federal finances wholly out of control, deserve to be beaten when they come up for renomination and election this year.

tion and they're pretty tempting, with the capital as cramped for room as it is. All embassy or legation building supposedly is on the soil of the nation that operated from it, locally. There's a traditional prejudice against the seizure of such premises, even when relations are broken. The theory is that they ought to be sealed up and left that way, like properties in process of transition from the ownership of some dead proprietor to his heirs, when the readjustment finally is accomplished.

It does strain diplomatic etiquette, though, to go on observing this rule in existing circumstances, with our government simply bursting for space to expand into and those sumptuous quarters standing vacant, on a trio of the fanciest cites in the capital.

HEALTHY CHICKS LIVE

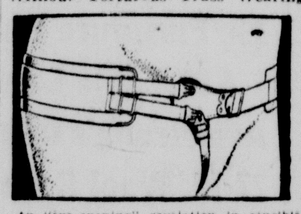

We are pleased to announce that this year all the breeders from which our chicks are produced have been blood tested for B.W.D. By the long tube test the blood is drawn from each bird by a licensed veterinarian and sent to a state laboratory for testing. This testing work is expensive; it is also very accurate and it will result in better livability in the chicks that you buy. Beware of so-called short or antingen tests performed at home by untrained operators with no official supervision of the work or the removal of reactors. For your own protection, demand that your chicks be hatched from a flock which has passed a test by the long tube method. Then you can be certain that your chicks will not inherit any Pullorum disease (B.W.D.)

Special Action To Cover Thefts Of Auto Tires Urged

State Motor Federation To Seek Legislation At Special Session This Month

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 10—Special session action on legislation to close loopholes in Pennsylvania laws covering the theft of automobile tires is being urged by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation and its 61 affiliated clubs in the state.

The suggestion is embodied in a letter sent to Governor Arthur H. James and urging that the call for the impending special session of the legislature be drafted to permit amendments "vital to the enforcement of existings laws penalizing larceny of tires." The federation, through its executive committee and secretary Manager R. B. Maxwell, emphasizes that, "without amendments providing severe penalties for defacing or altering the serial numbers on tires, complete and effective enforcement of the existing law is under a serious handicap in the present emergency during which automobile tires are irreplaceable and, consequently, priceless."

In the letter urging Governor James to open the special session call to legislation drafted to put teeth in the present law covering the theft, handling and possession of stolen tires, PMF Secreary-Manager Maxwell said:

"It is obvious that the law provides ample penalty for the larceny of a tire which under the Penal Code becomes a felony, and anyone convicted therefor shall be sentenced to pay a fine not to exceed $2,000 or to undergo imprisonment by separate or solitary confinement at labor not exceeding five years, or both.

"The one respect in which the present laws are inadequate is in proving that the tire in question was in fact stolen. For instance, if the serial number on the tire is defaced or altered you obviously will not be able to prove that the tire in question was yours. Defacing, altering or obliterating the serial number would appear to be the means of thwarting the effective prosecution of the law.

"It is the belief of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, therefore, that legislation is needed to make it illegal to deface, alter or obliterate the serial number or to have in your possession a tire on which the serial number has been defaced or obliterated."

Electrolytic Tin Plating Production Will Be Increased

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 10.—To aid in conserving the nation's vital supply of pig tin, and to help in meeting can makers' war time demands, United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries are installing three additional electrolytic tin plating production lines and six supplemental production lines for chemically treating black plate, Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corporation, announced today. Both the electrolytic tin plate and chemically treated black plate will, in certain applications, be used as a substitute for hot dip tin plate.

School Annex To Be Dedicated

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Feb. 10.—The new annex to Mercer school building will be dedicated Friday night, February 20, when a special three-hour program will be presented. Supervising Principal H. A. Krall announced today. The dedication ceremonies will begin at 7 p. m. when the annex will be opened for public inspection and teachers will act as hosts for demonstrations in the new laboratories.

A concert by the high school band, directed by Cecil Bowles, will be given in the auditorium beginning at 7:30 p. m.

A program by students on the theme of educational development in America and Pennsylvania will be presented between 8 and 9 p. m.

The final hour of the program will be a formal dedication ceremony with members of the board of education and other school officials participating.

The new annex, which was placed in use last month, provides the school facilities for agricultural and home economics vocational departments, in addition to new classroom space and room for other school activities.

Schools Send In 1,500 V B C Books

Books Collected By Schools Swell VBC Total To 4,000 In County

The work done by the pupils and faculty members of the New Castle public schools in collecting books during the past week for the Victory Book Campaign has resulted in adding more than 1,500 additional volumes to the 2,500 received previously at the library.

Under the supervision of VBC campaign committee member, B. K. Thacker, who is president of the war activities board of the New Castle schools, the city schools have all participated in helping to raise these books for service men's libraries.

In addition, within the past week, Miss Helen Houck, librarian at Westminster College, forwarded 250 books to the Public Library here that have been given by the people of New Wilmington.

Lawrence County's director of the Victory Book Campaign, Miss Alice Sterling, today stated that with 75 per cent of the county quota of 5,300 books already actually received at the library, which is serving as the main collection point, she feels confident that it will not be long until the goal is made.

"There are still a number of collection points and organizations that have yet to send in the books they have collected. We may find that these will put us over the top within the next few days."

Births In State Greater Than Deaths By 54,162 In Year

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—The excess of births over deaths in a year results in an addition to the population of Pennsylvania of a city comparable in size to McKeesport.

This is indicated in the annual report of Director J. C. Capt of the bureau of census covering Pennsylvania vital statistics for 1940. Live births total 165,680 compared with 111,498 deaths, giving a natural increase of 54,182 compared with 53,042 in the previous year.

The birth rate of 16.7 per 1,000 population represents an increase of 1.8 percent as compared with the corresponding figures for the preceding year and was higher than the rate for the middle Atlantic states.

Mothers in the age group 20 to 24 accounted for the largest number of single births—52,057, and 413 sets of twins. Mothers aged 25 to 29 ranked next with 46,538 single births and 498 sets of twins. There were three sets of triplets each born in these two age groups. Four sets of triplets were born from mothers aged 30 o 34, and the remaining set in the age group 35 to 39. Twins from all age groups totaled 1,685 sets. There were 115 single births from mothers aged 10 to 14. Nine single births were reported from mothers in the age group 50 to 54.

Of the total number of births, 101,668 occurred in the urban area and 64,012 in the rural districts.

Better Radio Listening Aim Of College Man

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Feb. 10.—Educating people to be more discriminating radio listeners is "highly imperative" in a democracy, according to Raymond W. Tyson, instructor in public speaking at the Pennsylvania State College.

Advocating that more public schools and colleges should give courses in radio, he pointed out today that the only equipment necessary is a microphone, an amplifier, and an extra classroom where the performers, unlike children in the old adage, can be heard and not seen.

Following his own advice at Penn State, Tyson is teaching a course in radio appreciation which emphasizes program planning, rigid adherence to professional standards of timing, and study of production technique.

Tons Of Scrap Steel In Rails In City Streets

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10—There's 6,600 tons of scrap steel along Philadelphia's streets which may be had for the asking—and the cost of taking it away.

A plan to dig up 4,600 tons of abandoned street car tracks was quickly put aside when it was learned that the cost of moving the tracks was about four times their value.

City officials have now suggested that there is about 2,000 tons of iron and steel in unused lampposts on the streets, but were also quick to add that whoever took the posts would have to pay for their removal.

Says Action For Congress Pensions Needs Repealing

Senator Lee Of Oklahoma Urges Repeal Of Measure Recently Enacted

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Sen. Lee (D) Okla., told the senate Monday that the law which placed members of congress under the civil service retirement act should be repealed "in the interest of national unity."

Recognizing the storm of criticism against "pensions for congressmen," Lee said:

"No matter how just and fair such legislation may be, if it tends to create distrust and lack of confidence at the present time, it is dangerous to our national welfare and should be avoided.

"Although I believe that the law is right, yet because it and the voters of congress have been so misunderstood by the people throughout the country at this critical time when self-sacrificing is so necessary, I believe that the effect of this act is very damaging to the morale of the country and that it should be repealed immediately.

"The law itself is right but it is an inappropriate time for such action."

Meanwhile, Sen. Mead (D) N. Y., who piloted the pensions for congressmen bill through the senate, rejected proposals that congress reconsider its actions. The congressional pension measure was a part of a general civil service retirement bill.

"First of all it is an administration bill, recommended by all departments, budget boards and the civil service commission," he said. "It is the first bill in history to have almost unanimous support before being signed and to arouse protests after it became law. Not until it was signed was there actual opposition. I see no reason to reconsider it."

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture
Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.
Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but it's so effective that, once tried, you'll never again be without it in your home.
Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed — no trouble at all.
Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.
This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.
Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Republican Senators Foresee Sharp Gains

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Republican senate leaders today predicted sharp gains in the senate and control of the house in the national congressional elections this year, while Democratic chiefs declared the war situation would benefit the party in power.

Both sides, however, agreed the country will witness an unusual political campaign—one with little politics in it.

With congress united in the war effort some members are reluctant to discuss political questions. The statement of President Roosevelt that he expects a congress to be chosen which will support the government, however, opened the door to political forecastnig.

Senatorial Views

Senatorial long-range views include:

Sen. Capper (R) Kans: "There will be less politics than in a long time. There will be a campaign but not much of a partisan fight. I am a strong supporter of the war and the president's program, but I am strong for the two-party system. I rather think the Republicans will gain in both senate and house. It is likely that the Republicans will gain at leas' a dozen senators and win control of the house."

Sen. Bailey (D) N. C.: "I don't look for any ground-swell this year. I think the American people will say they had better support the administration Both parties, of course, will try to maintain their organizations in preparation for a fight two years from now."

Sen. Mead (D) N. Y.: "People have faith n the president. He unified the people and solidified the continent People will ask support for that leadership."

See Warm Campaign

Sen. Wiley (R) Wis.: 'I think we will see a rather warm campaign in some places and fortunately all parties are agreed that the war must be prosecuted to victory. But I expect to see the Republicans gain in both senate and house."

Sen. Norris (I) Neb.: 'I'd rather expect the political complexion of congress to remain about the same, but that is just a guess."

Sen. Clark (D) Mo.: "I don't think anyone knows what the reaction will be next fall. In some wars it has operated one way; in other wars the opposite way."

Sen. Willis (R) Ind.: "My impression is that the Republicans will make gains. Republicans will support the war but appropriations are meaningless unless they are translated into arms at the front. That means the Republicans must offer constructive criticism. If the Democrats fail to deliver the goods the Repuolicans will benefit."

Sen. Hill (D) Ala.: "I would say that the people next fall will elect men of proven loyalty to the administration program, and I think this rule will work to the advantage of the Democrats."

Sen. Pepper (D) Fla.: "The election is a long ways off and any prediction is dangerous. I believe the people will feel that those who have been carrying on the war have had an experience which is invaluable to further prosecution of it. If the people believe that those in office are honest enough to profit by their mistakes, they will be willing to give them a fair chance."

New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.
Gentlemen:

I would like to intrude on your valuable time and space to learn if possible the sentiment of those who may read this should you deem it worthy of spacce in your valuable paper.

To introduce the subject let me say it is not always the big things in life, like our present war job, that causes the most personal irritation. For instance, flies, mosquitoes, a sliver in your finger, etc., which if persisted in finally gets you steamed up and you proceed to do something about it.

My present 'peeve" has to do with GARBAGE COLLECTION

This service is not a donation of our city dads, we are paying for it. Therefore why should not we be entitled to some say as to how it should be conducted?

My present steamed up condition concerns the simply thing of replacing can covers when the garbage has been emptied.

The question is, Do you can owners who are obliged to keep them out in the open like to find the covers off, quantities of snow, rain and ice in them, and ruined thru being beaten on the frozen ground in order to loosen up the contents? All for the lack of a few seconds time required to replace the cover.

My neighbors are all steamed up on this question but so far not enough to pop off. As my appeal to the proper authorities so far have not brought results, so lets hear from you and SWAT THAT FLY.

Very respectfully,
A. G. CRAWFORD.

SERVICE WITH A GREASE GUN!

He wears coveralls instead of khaki — and his gun shoots grease instead of bullets — but his good marksmanship keeps mechanized America moving!

The nation's "service station soldiers" are more important to all of us today than they have ever been before — and they have a vastly bigger job.

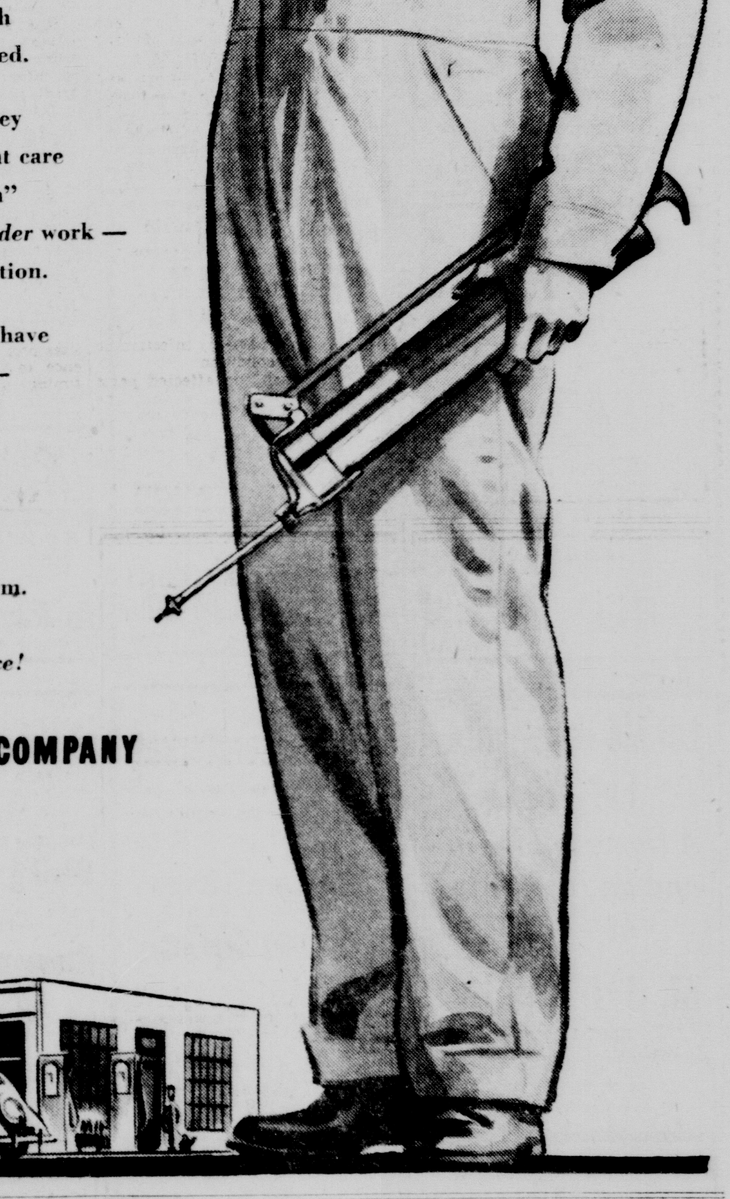

With no new cars and few new tires, the old ones must last longer. Millions of workers in war industries, thousands of doctors, nurses and mailmen must have dependable transportation. Newspapers must reach their readers. Food must be distributed.

Aging cars won't give service unless they get service. That means more constant care than in the old care-free "trade-'em-in" times. It means more work — and harder work — for every attendant in every service station.

But these men will measure up. They have the know-how — and the equipment — and the determination to do a real job.

They'll add to the life of your car and the precious rubber on which it rolls. They'll guard the good health of your battery, spark-plugs and cooling system. They'll do all these things — regularly and well — if you give them the chance!

Confirm Henderson Price Control Chief

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Taking only 30 seconds, the senate on Monday afternoon confirmed nomination of Leon Henderson, to be administrator of the new price control law.

Despite past criticism of Henderson by some members of the "Farm Bloc," no voice was raised when his name was presented on recommendation of the banking committee.

Since Henderson now is acting as administrator under executive order, the most tangible effect of confirmation immediately is to raise his salary from $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

But the new price control law carries far greater authority than he has been able to wield under executive order, because it carries criminal penalties and resort to court injunctions as means of enforcement.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The appendix is an appendage, or accessory to the main part.

Hanging from the intestine it is called the vermiform appendix

Vermiform is from "vermis," worm, and "forma,' shape.

Hence the appendix is shaped like a worm.

It is a useless tube, so far as medical science can find out.

At times when something lodges therein inflammation develops.

Inflammation or infection here is known as appendicitis.

Early operation for appendicitis is usually simple and safe.

If delayed, the necessary operation becomes more serious.

The first symptoms of appendictis may be stomachache.

Laxatives may cause spreading infection.

For abdominal pain, don't delay seeking medical advice.

Ends Life Rather Than Leave Farm

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 10—Coroner Luther J. King reported today that Smith J. Armour, 80, shot and killed himself Saturday night while his family was moving from his farm in Greenwood township, Crawford county, which had been taken over by the Governor as part of the site for a munitions plant.

Members of the family said Armour had been grieving over the prospect of leaving the farm, where he was born, for another farm which a son had purchased. Half the family's possessions already had been moved when Armour shot himself.

News Sunshine Editor Tells Of Local Folks Basking At 'St. Pete'

By JAMES P. CALDWELL
(Special News Correspondent)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 7.—At this time last year over 100 tourists from New Castle had registered at the Chamber of Commerce. This year about 30 have hit the concrete trail.

The latest to arrive are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carr, S. N. Carr, Mrs. Roes Appolito, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sheaffer, Miss Margaret Devereau, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kinder. From Wurtemburg, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Newton. From Ellwood City, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kirk.

Total registrations from the United States and Canada stand at 31,000, compared with 40,099 at this time last year. These figures indicate the effect of war time conditions. Residents who depend on tourists for a living are going to have to tighten their belts.

People You Know

Probably you are losing sleep wondering what the people from New Castle are doing when they are not drinking orange juice. In my feeble way I will attempt to tell you.

George W. Swisher, Jr., who is in the United States navy, has been transferred from Alaska to Bermuda, according to a letter received by his father, George W. Swisher, Sr., who is spending the winter in St. Petersburg. Swisher, senior, is a retired New Castle letter carrier who wore out over 100 pairs of shoes during the 37 years that he tramped bricks for Uncle Sam.

He now spends his days with hook and line, and his evenings studying the life of Isaac Walton. During the recent visit of Mr. and Mrs. Chester P. Reynolds, he chaperoned them on a deep sea fishing trip. Chester got seasick, says Swisher, but Mrs. Reynolds stood the trip like a seasoned fisheress. The party caught about 50 pounds of fish.

Mornes Has a Hobby

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Mornes have a hobby of attending county fairs. They have been at two since coming down, one at Largo, the other at Tampa. Mornes says he has been collecting data which he will turn over to Clyde Shoaff in the hope that it may help him to the conclusion that greater latitude should be given to the midway. More people seem interested in half dressed actresses than in full dressed cattle.

Relying on the theory that "two heads are better than one," Mornes came to me for help in unravelling a tax problem. After two horus and 36 minutes of intensive study of the so-called "simple tax blanks" we agreed that we were both blockheads, and the old adage wouldn't work.

Preston To the Rescue

I suggested that he see Carmi Preston, a graduate of the Pennsylvania legislature, who is here visiting his father, Llewellyn Preston. Carmi unscrambled the tax puzzle with as much ease as a man swings through the air on a flying trapeze. Mornes and I looked sort of dumb like, and agreed that we needed new heads.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Clements, who spent last winter in California, are back in St. Petersburg this season. They say there was so much rain in California last year that they became sort of water-logged, so came here this season to get dried out.

They are old customers of Florida, having made their first trip from Tampa to St. Petersburg in a flatboat long before the Gandy bridge or the Davis Causeway were in the incubator.

Fed the Hungry

Mrs. Annie Williams, Croton avenue, who spent last winter at Miami, is giving St. Petersburg a tryout this season. She recently entertained some of her New Castle friends at a dinner, given under the auspices of the Pennsylvania society. Fortunately the dinner was not on the cafeteria style and she will have enough money left to get her back home.

Mrs. C. A. McCready is having such a nice time that she says she will hate to go back home. She was not very well when she came down, but she has been spending considerable time on the green benches, strictly to sun herself, and is feeling much improved.

Mrs. Nora Preston and Mrs. Caldwell have been attending beauty lectures by Madame Olga, and may need an introduction to their friends when they get back home. I may land in a hospital for disclosing this piece of private information, but I just can't keep a secret.

A Problem of Feet

Harry G. Preston, who has developed into an expert shuffle board player, has been slowed down by trouble with one of his feet. I don't know whether it is his right foot or his left, but it must be one of them, as he only has two feet.

The trouble didn't prevent him however, from playing in a championship game with a Lake Wales club this week. I wish I could tell you which foot is giving him the trouble. It is so unsatisfactory to be ill-informed. But regardless of which foot it is, it is with pleasure that I am able to report that whichever foot it is, it is limbering up and Harry will soon be able to put in time and a half on the shuffle board courts.

Mrs. Fenton Shuffles

And speaking of shuffling, Mr and Mrs. E. A. Fenton are located within speaking distance of the shuffle boards. Mrs. Fenton is as handy with the cue as she is with a rolling pin. Most of the shufflers are pie for her, especially if they are pigeon-toed.

Mr. Fenton don't shuffle much with a cue, but he does a lot of it with his feet, walking up Central avenue every day to get a bird's eye view of the champion green bench sitter. To be a champion on the green benches you must fill both eyes with romance and sit long hours without a cushion.

Mrs. Ella Risher and sister, Miss Bessie Miller, are at the Martha Washington hotel, where the former is hostess and the latter is stenographer. Mrs. Risher is quite a popular hostess, as evidenced by the fact that she has been at the Martha Washington for four years.

There are so many hotels here that the hostessing business is quite a thriving industry.

The Hostess' Duties

The duties of a hostess are to get the guests acquainted, so the women can tell about their operations, and the men can lie about their golf scores.

If it weren't for hostesses, strangers to each other would sit around hotels with their hands on their pocketbooks and thoughts on their sins.

But with a hostess in their midst, icebergs melt and grouches smile. But these observations may be irrelevant and immaterial as the lawyers say. I'll admit that I have sort of rambled away from Mrs. Risher and Miss Miller, whom I might identify as daughters of the late Mr and Mrs. Joseph Miller and sisters of Clarence Miller.

Oh, Sugar, Sugar

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, who migrated here to escape the grocery business, shiver when they think of how narrowly they missed the sugar epidemic. They're very temperamental, and say it would have grieved them greatly to have had a customer turn sour if they refused him sweets. They're playing in the sand now, instead of the sugar barrel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chapman are down for their second trip this season. They can't stay long on account of Ed's milk business. You never can tell when a milk truck is going to come in fresh.

The Chapmans took three days to cover the 1360 miles, not wishing to wear out their tires by fast driving.

Mayor Mayne Interested

I received a letter from Mayor Mayne this week, and after asking for some advice on the intricate problems confronting the city, he wanted to know what we do down here to put in the time. It's a logical question and deserves a civil answer.

To be really truthful about it, I would say that most of the women spend their time hunting stuff in their handbags, while the men kill time sunning their bald heads.

Speaking of handbags, I can remember when women carried all their earthly possessions in a skirt pocket. Said inventory consisted mostly of a white cotton handkerchief with lace around the edges. I have noted with growing concern the evolution of the handbag, from a tiny receptacle, carried like a wrist watch to the enormous carpet sacks now in use. No wonder the modern woman is growing stoop shouldered.

In closing I would like to say a word in behalf of the atmosphere down here. With no mills or factories, and only oil burners for occasional heat, the air is so pure that you can't even taste it. Nowhere does it show off to better advantage than in the skies.

Old couples sit around in the parks, and on the green benches along the streets at night, and gaze enraptured at the stars. They aren't good for much else.

But it's really thrilling to sit in gloaming and feast your eyes on the stars emerging from the sea, while the mantle of night falls silently on the dark blue waters. As they mount higher and higher into the canopy above, the stars glisten like diamonds in the meadows of heaven.

And the moon, if it happens to be on the job, how it soars in majestic splendor. No wonder it is called the Queen of Night. In this year, dustproof atmosphere, it is easy to see what the man in the moon is doing. He is reading the Hints and Dints in the New Castle News, and marveling at the perseverance of Fred Rentz in writing them for over half a century.

Sees Three Or Four Years War Ahead

Engineers Of Western Pennsylvania Hear Prediction Of War Leader

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 10.—America faces a three or four year war and an immediate grim need for vastly increased production, the man who runs western Pennsylvania mills and factories had been warned today.

Outspoken William L. Batt, director of raw materials in the war production board, sounded the warning before 1600 engineers and businessmen at the annual banquet of the Engineers' society of western Pennsylvania, opening with:

"I hope to spoil some of your comfort before I leave here tonight."

Against reflected public optimism he stated that far-eastern and near-eastern developments have been almost all "bad news". MacArthur, he said, is fighting with his back to the wall and "only Divine Providence can save him."

"We can build thousands of tanks and thousands of planes—we can do anything in this country—if we just want to do it.

"It's human nature to hang on to things as usual—business as usual—comforts as usual—as long as we can. But we've got a job for three years—four years perhaps—and if it's not longer it will be because American industry wanted to get it done sooner."

Batt appealed for conservation of existing stock piles and prevention of waste. For lack of scrap steel, Batt said, many steel furnaces now stand idle. Collection of waste metal, he said, is one way of adding immediately to production. He added:

"You've all got scrap, and as men interested in the steel industry it behooves you to go out and dig it up."

Urges Budgeting Of Use Of Autos

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 10.—Intelligent budgeting of an automobile's use rather than storing or neglecting the car is urged by Russell Lloyd, executive secretary of the Ohio State Automobile association, as an effective contribution by Ohio motorists to the program of conserving rubber and automobiles for the period of the war.

"Automobile use should be budgeted so that although on an economy program, the car serves desirable purposes in greater measure," Lloyd said.

"Get acquainted with your neighbors and those who travel over the same streets or routes you do, to work, to market, to school, or to church," he urged. "Arrange to use your automobile on alternate days or every two days, pick up enough neighbors to fill it. In this way, one automobile, fully loaded, will do the work of two or three."

"Make it a patriotic necessity to be friendly," he said. "Such neighborly cooperation may eliminate the daily use of thousands of automobiles in every city."

Lloyd also urged that two or three families plan their vacations together so that they can use the same car.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 32
LOSSES FROM CASUALTIES, THEFT, AND WAGERS

To be deductible, a loss arising from "fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty" need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained.

A loss occasioned by damage to an automobile maintained for pleasure, where such damage results from the faulty driving of the taxpayer or other person operating the automobile, but is not due to the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer, is a deductible loss in the computation of net income. If damage to a taxpayer's automobile results from the faulty driving of the operator of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned to the taxpayer by such damage is likewise deductible.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry of an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed.

Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to recompense for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

In general, losses for which an amount may be deducted for income tax purposes must be evidence by closed and completed transactions, fixed by identifable events, bona fide and actually sustained during the taxable period for which claimed. For instance, a person possessing stock of a corporation cannot deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of shrinkage in value of such stock through fluctuation of the market or otherwise. In the case of an individual the loss allowable in such cases is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed. If any securities (that is, shares of stock in a corporation and rights to subscribe for or to such shares) become worthless during the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall, for income tax purposes, be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year of capital assets.

Wampum Alumni To Aid Service Men

Members of the Wampum High Alumni association met last evening at the home of Mrs. Nellie Grinnen, president of the group and made plans for raising money to aid the men of the Wampum district who are now in service.

Other officers present were: Mrs Victor Rider, secretary, and Mrs. Irene Hennon, treasurer. The association through the fine cooperation of the Wampum merchants will put money boxes in the various stores.

Butler Hennon, coach of the Wampum High basketball team was also present at the meeting and it was decided to stage a benefit basketball game the night of February 21 between Wampum High and the Alumni with all proceeds going to the service fund. Other benefits were also discussed but no definite action was taken in regard to any one of the proposals.

News Briefs From City Hall

Albert Russo, who has been serving as a policeman temporarily, has been called to military service and left for camp several days ago.

John Abraham, 613 East Long avenue, stated today he was not in a Long avenue poolroom when it was raided recently and that mistaken identity caused it to appear that he had been arrested and fined.

For safety first purposes councilmen have ordered that chains be attached immediately to all city cars when snow causes streets to become slippery.

City of New Castle purchased two typewriters yesterday because of a likelihood that it may be difficult to obtain them later.

Police activities have been very quiet during the past 24 hours.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Members of the Knights of Columbus will have their regular meeting Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the K. of C Home, North Jefferson street, with Grand Knight Francis Augostine in charge.

Safety Rally Here Tonight

With Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis J. Hines as the featured speaker a safety rally will be held tonight in the senior high school auditorium under the auspices of the Committee for the Conservation of Man Power in Defense Industries.

Other speakers will be Ross M. Leffler, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the western Pennsylvania branch of the organization and Harry D. Immel of the Department of Labor and Industry. Judge John G. Lamoree will be the chairman of the evening.

Industries and utilities throughout the city and county are cooperating in tonight's meeting and the auditorium will probably be filled. The meeting is open to the public.

Over the state the organization mentioned above has been sponsoring safety meetings. An hour's labor lost through accident is an hour lost to the United Nations. The need for safety in industry was never quite so vital before and the lesson is being brought home to workers constantly. The meeting tonight starts at eight o'clock.

Governor Against Increasing Grants For State Relief

Says War Contracts In Hard Coal Region Would Crack Relief Problem

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 10.—Gov. Arthur H. James today was opposed to suggestions that the legislature be requested to increase grants for food and rents to the state's needy.

He expressed disappointment over the failure of the wartime industrial program to provide jobs for thousands of Pennsylvanias who seek employment in the munitions and other defense industries. He insisted that present prices are only slightly higher than they were five years ago.

Governor James said:

"We are paying more relief per person than at least 20 other states, and many of those states are geographically, socially and industrially comparable with Pennsylvania.

"We have every assurance from Washington that price control is on the way, and that price ceilings plus rationing will scale present levels down instead of permitting them to rise."

The governor explained that a "half dozen war contracts in the territories where I have been asking for them (anthracite region) for more than a year would crack the relief problem overnight."

At present, a single person on relief can draw a maximum grant of $4.75 a week while a family of five can get a maximum weekly relief grant of $13.50.

Lays Shootings In France To Gestapo

Assassination Of German Officers In France Laid To German Gestapo

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following exclusive dispatch from a staff correspondent of International News Service arrived today by airmail from an undesignated spot on the German frontier. He feared to send it by wireless, lest it be picked up and traced to him, but managed by posting it through a devious route to avoid the German censorship. It had, however, been intercepted and opened by British officials somewhere enroute to New York.)

By a Staff Correspondent of International News Service
(International News Service)

SOMEWHERE ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER, BY MAIL—Contrary to the general belief that dissident Frenchmen are responsible, virtually all the assassinations of German officers in occupied France have been carried out by a special department of the German Gestapo, this correspondent is able to reveal today.

This information comes from a highly reliable source—a former Gestapo co-worker, who disclosed that this highly murderous arm of the Nazi secret police operates directly under control of Adolf Hitler himself and independently of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler.

The campaign is characteristic of Nazi methods. By ordering his Gestapo henchmen to dispose of German officers, Hitler achieves the following:

1. Cleanses the officers cadres of the Wehrmacht of officers who seek to oppose Nazism.

2. Claims the lives of from 50 to 100 French hostages for each officer shot.

3. Keeps France in a state of ferment enabling him to bring constant and threatening pressure on Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

Proof of the "phony" nature of the French assassinations, it was pointed out, lies in the fact that in no case thus far has the murderer been caught. The assassinations, incidentally, are far more frequent than foreign press reports indicate. They occur daily in much larger numbers than published.

The actual triggerman, it is said, are aided in their escapes by agents of the Gestapo and everything is done to cover their trails. Only a fraction of the assassinations are announced, lest the French people themselves wonder why no arrests are made.

Quarrymen Give Days Pay To Aid Red Cross Fund

Lake Erie Limestone Company Workers Set Fine Example In Campaign

When it comes to giving, the employes of the Lake Erie Limestone Company have set an example which is outstanding. Not only did these men give their company a 100 per cent rating, but each man contributed one day's pay to the campaign. Some fine contributions were given by other industries, but it is doubtful if any equalled that of the Mahoning township quarrymen. Mike Sfara was chairman and did a splendid job.

Another contribution just received is one of $2 from the Senior High Girl Reserves, which is in addition to money they gave at school, and was taken from their penny contributions.

Section 20 Lead At Stake Tonight On Bessemer Court

Bessemer And New Wilmington High Confident Of Emerging Victorious

OVERFLOW CROWD WILL SEE BATTLE

Filled with a strong desire to rule the roost in Section 20, Bessemer and New Wilmington High combat for the peak post tonight in Bessemer before an overflow gallery.

The well regimented county battalions are perched side by side in the penthouse with seven victories and two defeats apiece.

Game Is Important

Even if Bessemer's recent loss to Mt. Jackson is erased from the lost column by the W.P.I.A.L. committee now studying the eligibility technicality involving Kallas of Mt. Jackson High, tonight's skirmish loses little flavor for this reason:

Should New Wilmington topple the red and black clad passers, the "Greyhounds" are assured of a tie for the ceiling seat even if league moguls award the recent Jackson game to Bessemer. By winning tonight and also receiving a Mt. Jackson forfeit, Bessemer will be well on its way to the championship.

The court party is sure to see a battle packed with streamlined basketball from whistle to whistle. The rivals won't hold back a thing.

Both squads are blessed with exceedingly talented personnels. New Wilmington, with 6 foot 4 Kenny Cathart and Borowicz serving as generals, will provide more than one uneasy moment for the home cheering division.

The college towners' rooters, we're sure, will have a few unhappy moments, too. Tasota, Kresevich and Grubisa, Bessemer stars, will furnish proof for this statement.

The cross county rivals will unfurl knitted zone defenses that have plagued their adversaries throughout the bounce marathon. How about the offense? The respective coaches refused to comment.

After winning eight in a row, Bessemer was tomahawked twice in a row, by Mt. Jackson and by Wampum. New Wilmington, loser of only two game (each by one point) this season, is undoubtedly one of the smoothest clicking Class B fives in the district and rules as a slight favorite.

Lawrence county's remaining cage devotees have their pick of three other loop scraps.

Wampum High, conqueror of Bessemer last Friday, feels confident of whipping East Brook High at Wampum. The Hennonmen still have better than an outside chance of emerging with its second title.

Shenango steps into the role of host in East New Castle, peppering the hoops against Mt. Jackson. Until Kallas' status is cleared, the Jackson athlete will view proceedings from the sidelines.

Union Township High flips before the home town community, entertaining Princeton.

Listed as idle so far as competition is concerned, New Castle High's Section III leaders are girding for Friday night's important tussle against Beaver Falls High, on the valley floor. The local basketball cheering section will be intact. The setto is booked for Beaver Falls High gym and will follow a prelim number between the "jayvees" of both schools.

In the collegiate rank, Westminster college endeavors to pad its claim for national champion honors by toppling the Millersville Teachers tonight in Millersville.

Saints Defeat Greek Five 24-19

St. Vitus Wallops Central Presbyterians, Third Beats Central Christians

The St. Mary's quintet staged a big upset in the New Castle church basketball league last night by trimming the favored St. George Greek team 24 to 19 in the feature game on the night's bill.

"Cogey" Othites, the veteran star center of the Greek team was the outstanding performer in the game with 11 of the Greek points, while Nickie "Stellar" Lucas had the other eight points. Best in the Saints lineup were: Carey, Kelly and Ferrell.

In the first game the St. Vitus boys walloped the Central Presbyterians 62 to 28, with Ciazza, Zingaro and Lauro starring. In the second game the Third U.P. team defeated the Central Christians 35 to 32, with Hopper and O'Neil the outstanding stars in the game.

PLAY MILLERSVILLE TEACHERS TONIGHT

(Special To The News)

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 10—Playing one of their best games of the season, Westminster college's streamlined Titans rolled over the West Chester State Teachers, 78-47, here on Monday night.

The Lawrence countians, performing before a large gallery, showed the onlookers why they are ranked with the greatest passing machines in the land by uncorking a pretty to look at attack.

Westminster soon hopped on its scoring bandwagon and then proceeded to build up a commanding lead. The Titans' markmanship was a sight to behold.

Dale Dunmire, Lee Fox and "Buzz" Ridl divided 43 points to lead the Titan scorers. Westminster peppered the hoops for 34 double deckers and flipped 10 fouls. Every participating Titan cager scored at least two points. Coach Washabaugh substituted freely.

Tonight in Millersville, Westminster faces stiffer opposition, battling the Millersville Teachers. Past performances indicate that the Titans should emerge with their 12th victory against three losses.

Cancel Women's Golf Tourney

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—Because of the call of women to other duties during the war, the executive committee of the Philadelphia Women's Golf Association has decided to cancel its title tournaments this year.

It was pointed out that it would be practically impossible to operate a league schedule, with war work engaging most of the women, a dearth of caddies and transportation from club to club doubtful.

A two-day, 36-hole stroke competition will replace the individual tournaments. The association, however, urged that every club which had scheduled an invitation tournament go through with it.

Although the Philadelphia women's championship games were played during the last war, Mrs. Leslie F. Mulford, association president, commented:

"I don't think the last war can be compared with this one."

Fritzie Zivic Wins From Chilean Boxer

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 10.—Fritzie Zivic's home-town followers bobbed their heads in agreement today on the fact that their ex-welterweight champ still could dish it out—enough for an easy decision over Flashy Paul Carrabantes, of Chile.

Zivic won their 10-round bout, feature of an infantile paralysis fund benefit in the Gardens, in a fast battle, with plenty of rough stuff that kept the referee busy. Zivic piled up a big lead in the early rounds, then coasted while Carrabantes dominated the seventh and ninth rounds.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Let's see now; where were we, bud? That's the way things go. You lose the thread of your thoughts, if any, when you don't pay any attention to a fellow for a few months and look up suddenly to see that he has bobbed right back into the middle of things. So we will start all over again with that incident of last summer, when Billy Conn was knocked into a sitting-standing jacknife and finally was cooped up on the third bounce and deposited back in his corner, through for the evening, after he had come within a few brief minutes of winning the world heavyweight championship.

He was out in front on points, you remember, when he got fresh in the 13th round and promptly was cut down by Joe Louis.

His showing that night was such as to cause the encounter to be rated as among the so-called epics of the ring and he was filed away by Promoter Mike Jacobs for an encore in another big summer show outdoors this year. But if the thread of that idea we were pursuing hasn't got all snarled up, Conn has let himself be sidetracked off the main line lately and with the summer outdoor season rapidly approaching is going to risk that lucrative encore on Friday night against Tony Zale.

Zale Is Tough

It looks like a match made strictly for a pay day and one in which Conn may run into some embarrassment. I positively have no aversions to paydays. In fact, the more the merrier, but Zale is the kind of a tough young gander who may make Conn look pretty bad. He can rebuild off of that, of course, with quick conquests over a series of round heel willies, but the Louis-Conn rematch is bound to lose much of its glamor if the challenger runs into a brisk evening in the meantime.

And Zale can give you a brisk evening, as he had had to do occasionally in overcoming whatever opposition he encountered in belting his way to the middleweight title.

However, any way you look at the match Conn is on the spot. How could it be otherwise when a former light heavyweight champion and heavyweight challenger fights the middleweight champion enroute to a return engagement with Louis?

Since he has tangled with Louis, Conn has polished off Henry Cooper at Toledo, O., and Jud. Turner at St. Louis, and did so quite handily, but he was something less than a ball of fire on those occasions. A close, tough win over Zale is not going to add to his prestige. That, at least, is the businesslike way to look at the thing. Perhaps the fight racket is better for having birds like Louis and Conn around taking on all comers at any time.

But let's not get started on that.

Conn Best Boxer

One important point about this forthcoming match is that it will offer some evidence as to whether Louis took much, or anything, out of Conn. Zale is a hard hitter and will give Conn's body a good workout before they have travelled the scheduled 12 rounds. No one is sure Conn can take too much down below. I recall seeing him wince against men of his own size when solidly plunked in the middle and many insist that his knockout against Louis was nothing more or less than collapse under the punishment he had received.

Assuming that he won't knock Zale out, because Conn is not a knockerouter, he is going to have to stand up under considerable fire. Zale will bang him around some and that may and probably will be the tip-off on how long Conn will last against Louis next June—two or three rounds or six or seven.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

In this forever fascinating profession of striving to engineer an interesting and newsy column daily for our clientele, which numbers Mrs. L., mom and a couple of benignant relatives who haven't anything else to do for a pastime, there are days when the pot overflows with news victuals. The Mother Hubbard days come around, too. Today, the boiler is whistling.

Sunday, we spent about eight hours with members of the Pittsburgh Baseball Writers' Association and a cordon of celebrities which included Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach, Frankie Frisch, Pirate baseball pilot, Hans (poor fellow) Lobert, newly named manager of the Phils, only to name a few.

While the penmen rehearsed their parts for the annual extravaganza, the celebs and a few others gabbed. In between drinks (not what you think, either) and poker hands, a few good stories made the rounds as well as a lot of choosy news bits, some off the record. "Doc" Carlson told an actual experience of late vintage.

Carlson is noted for feeding his cagers a prodigious amount of ice cream. Consequently, the press has dubbed Pitt the "ice cream eaters." This prelude is necessary to appreciate the joke. Carlson was a spectator at Duquesne gym. A supposed to be smart guy paraded across the gym, carrying a bag. Approaching "Doc", the young man uncovered the bag and remarked in baby talk, "Here, Carlson, have a big cone of ice cream."

Good natured Lobert came in for a lot of kidding. One witty scribe wanted to know how Hans intended to split up the 1942 world series melon. . . . Frisch was persuaded to show the writers the foot that underwent an operation. He did . . Pitt and Westminster will play a home and home basketball game next season, we learned.

John L. Hernon, head of the chapter and affiliated with the Tri-State News Bureau, sent greetings to his New Castle friends. Hernon, who looks like Jesse Willard, told of his New Castle days when he attended grade school and later when he pounded a typewriter for the old New Castle Herald.

"Doc" Carlson told us to peddle greetings to Dr. J. O. Woods, and Ralph H. Gardner, both intimate friends of the Pitt teacher . . . . News also leaked out that Duquesne dropped three gridders for scholastic deficiency. . . . A Duke cager, plenty good, felt the axe, too . . . West Virginia will get a bid to the N. C. A. A. tourney, provided the Mountaineers don't slump. . . . New York University and Syracuse are right in line, too.

The desk, too, was loaded at reporting time. Frank Nocera, ex-Shenango coach, is now a Navy man in Gene Tunney's physical ed program . . . Angelo "Dykes" Monsey, New Castle Field club professional, says there are enough golf balls on hand for the season. He'll ration them for safety's sake . . . His brother, Rick, in Puerto Rico, reports that he fired a 34 and consequently beat three other army officers for $13. Rick is a cadet in the air corps. The "30" sign has flashed, sorry.

Gendarmes Subdue Indignant Ring Fan

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—Customers who went to see the fights at the San Francisco Coliseum last night got their money's worth in extra-curricular activities that necessitated calling in the cops.

It was a night of beefs, highlighted by a near riot caused when two prelim fighters, Eddie Hallihan and Babe Miranda, staged a knockdown punch melee that brought three gendarmes into the ring to subdue an indignant spectator who joined in the fsetivities.

Long Island Easily Tops Duquesne Five

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Long Island university easily whipped Duquesne university's basketeers, 44-34, Monday night in Madison Square Garden.

The Birds took a 26-11 lead at halftime and never were in danger of being toppled. This marked the Dukes' third setback and put them in a deadlock with Westminster college for district honors in western Pennsylvania.

Former Girl Olympic Champion Will Bring Floor Team Here

New Castle basketball fans will have an opportunity on Sunday to see one of the greatest girl athletes in the country perform on the hardwood court—Stella Walsh of Cleveland, former Olympic girl champion will bring her famous Polish Olympics girls team to New Castle to play the Factor girls at the Falcon hall.

This will be one of the biggest basketball attractions brought to New Castle since Babe Didrikson played here several years ago. The Cleveland team is one of the strongest in the country and will give the Factor lassies a severe testing. The Factor girls will have a workout tonight at the Falcon hall.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Crew Coach Ky Ebright of California U. received an agreeable surprise today when he opened a letter. Out fluttered a check. It was for $1,250, and was from George McKee Blair, in training with the navy air corps at Pensacola with which to buy a new shell for California U. Last year the former California U. student, who was a sophomore, rowed No. 7 oar. He was lacking in size but had the spirit and was a willing worker. He failed to return to school last fall and many students forgot him. Last year, Ebright, whose home is in Sewickley, enlisted in the navy air corps. His letter to Coach Blair read: "I wanted to do something for the crew at California, so please find enclosed amount necessary to buy a new shell."

Joe Gordon, New York Yankee second baseman, left today for spring training at St. Petersburg, Fla. . . . With a veteran team and seven victories in 10 games, Grove City college hopes to break the Slippery Rock Tutors down this season. They play at Slippery Rock tonight.

Roy Sawyer, right winger for the Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey team, suffered a slight skull fracture in last night's game against New Haven at Indianapolis. He fell on his head after a collision with Vic Myles of New Haven.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of public instruction, said at Harrisburg last night that if local school districts manage their own athletic affairs reasonably satisfactorily they ought to be allowed to continue. Directors of the State School Directors association last week demanded a voice in schoolboy athletics. The directors charged the Pennsylvania Interscholastic A. A. board of control had tabled the request for three memberships on the body and reiterated a plea for approval of the idea. If such membership is further denied, the association advocated the organization urge "the complete supervision of competitive athletics be placed under the jurisdiction of the department of public instruction." This would require legislation to make it affective, Dr. Haas advised.

Polo, hit hardest by the war, has cancelled its three major tourneys scheduled for this year. . . . Dr. Dave O'Loughlin scored 15-9, 15-12, 15-12 over George Pryer at Pittsburgh in squash racquets, Monday. . . . A boxer may have a trainer but not a manager in amateur boxing. It is also against A. A. U. regulations to pay a judge of amateur boxing contests.

British Attack Enemy Convoys

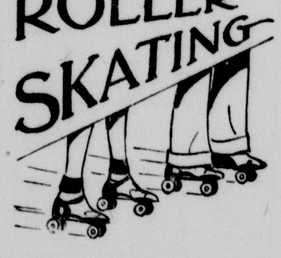

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Three more successful attacks on enemy convoys in the central Mediterranean by British submarines, in which one large vessel was sunk, a second was "almost certainly sunk" and a third was hit, were announced by the British admiralty today.

Fans To Trek Into Arena Wednesday To Witness Fights

Leasure, Magsum, Wargo, Cordy, Shelton, Jackson, James On Card

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FUND WILL BENEFIT

Well folks, those 16 amateur fighters are ready to appease your lust for punch at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday night in The Arena for the benefit of the Infantile Paralysis fund and if there isn't a couple of knockouts a guess will have gone.

In the first place, there are some prominent fistic knights, some not quite so well known and others whose chief stock in trade is swing—and swing always means a likelihood of a Sunday punch landing upon a vulnerable spot.

Everybody and his Mrs., son and daughter, plus the house guests are reported by the Infantile Paralysis fight committee to be Arena-bound. They realize there is no more dread ailment than Infantile Paralysis and the show is designed to help combat the malady.

Some time ago the President's ball was staged in The Cathedral. Funds derived from that promotion will be hitched to the money gained tomorow night. This is the second time the Jefferson A. C. has aided in raising funds for the worthy cause.

And now let us see who is on the calendar:

First is Les Leasure. He is in civilian life a very nice boy but once he adorns his be-muscled form in fistic habliment and crawls into a ring he is Mr. Viciousness. He is scheduled to fight smashing Norman Fitch of Chester, W. Va., at 160 pounds.

The semi-final will find two stars—Nick Wargo of Pittsburgh vs Frankie Cordy of Niles. There will be more fire in tomorrow night's fight than there was in the first fight. Wargo, a Diamond Belt junior lightweight champion lost the first setto with the up-and-comin' Cordy.

Smarts Under Defeat

He has smarted under the defeat. In fact, his reputation was not only sullied but damaged. It cost him prestige in Pittsburgh, so those of you who travel through the turnstiles of the big, comfortable sports arena can expect to witness thrills when they start flinging punches.

Russell Baxter, the straight-up style middleweight, will not be on the card, but a good opponent has been secured to fight Red Bardo of Pittsburgh. According to reports, Baxter has placed his fistic affairs under the guidance of Arch Cumo.

Last night, Cumo reportedly asked Leach for terms which the matchmaker considered excessive. Baxter has a good paying job, Cumo said, and advised that, if the terms could not be granted the Baxter boy would not box. The terms were not granted.

Billy Shelton, colored gladiator, who fought Rollin Horne recently will take on Mello Donelli of Youngstown at 135. The fans believe Shelton beat Horne so he was brought back because of popular demand. Mello may clip Billy's ears if he isn't careful.

Baby-sized Boxers

Dick Roach, no bigger than a bag of hoarded sugar and Chuck Jackson, Diamond Belt champion flyweight (112 pounds) are scheduled to clash. There'll be no dull seconds in the fight. It ought to be the fastest fight on the card. Roach beat Foo Yee, the Chinaman, here, recently.

The Leasures, Baby Face and Al, both brothers to Big Brother Les, are carded for action. Baby Face, up to the time he was stopped by Cordy, looked like one of the most promising amateur boxers in this section. He came back two weeks ago to win and has regained his confidence.

He is to fight Arbie Bowie of Aliquippa. Arbie has a thin "belly" and body punches may hurt the elongated Beaver Valley "kid". However, if Arbie leans one of his long heavy rights upon Baby Face's chin and gets him groggy, Arbie is a vicious "miller."

Al is scheduled to tackle Wayne Dillon of Chester, W. Va., at 135. Several nights ago in McKeesport, Wayne stepped into one of the early bouts, made short work of his opponent and caught an early train home. He yearns to beat Al early tomorrow night. But can he? No one knows yet.

Doors Open Early

There ought to be a lot of lethal loaded gloves fly when George Magsum of Chester fights Howard James, an A. A. U. district 175-pound champion, who comes from Aliquippa. Magsum scored a TKO also recently at McKeesport. There's hot rivalry between George and Howard, hence a fight is a-brewin'.

The entire card looks roseate. Some are potent punchers. Others, especially Baxter, Jackson and Roach have cat-like left jabs. Les Leasure has T.N.T. in his right. It would be foolish to predetermine just "Who will be who" when any one bout ends.

The Jefferson A. C. will open the doors to the Arena at 7:30 p.m. The State Athletic commission and A. A. U. will be in charge. Police will watch parked cars and help direct fans into the Arena where boys, who may soon be in military service, will show their boxing ability.

Two Games In Colored Loop

Two games will be played tonight in the colored church basketball league at the Arena floor. The first game will start at 5:45 o'clock and will find the Second Baptist playing the St. Lukes team.

The second game will have the Union Baptist playing the St. Paul quintet.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Sometimes, in weaker moments, we actually feel sorry for the politicians. Especially those who made the office they were running for . . . there is always one or two persons who hang around after the election time waiting for a handout. This type of person actually thinks that he was the one responsible for the election of his so-called friend. It must at times become rather tiresome for the elected officer . . . but there isn't a whole lot he can do . . . after all he is in public office . . . however, there is no law in classifying this type of pest, and don't you think that the smart office holder doesn't have him set down in his book as bore number one . . . and in Capital letters too.

* * *

It seems that politicians are forward in the conversation today. Can't quite make that out. No election for some little time . . . but then it's always an interesting subject . . . to some people. One politician doesn't usually help another, but once in a while you will find a couple of dopes. Then you will see the helping hand . . . and some yap will be handed something . . . usually something he doesn't know what to do with, but . . . It has a big pay so what's the difference if he doesn't know what it's all about . . . we the taxpayers will pay the bill. That is what runs through some of the minds that are picking up these snap jobs and they pay 4,800 dollars or more per year. There will come a time when the Republicans will be in the seat again . . . But right now let's all join hands . . . let's pledge anew that we are for the out and out victory of Freedom as we Americans know it. It will take every man, woman and child cooperating one hundred percent.

* * *

We hope that the proper officials of this community are laying plans for the repairing of Highland Avenue . . . once it was thought that East Washington street was rough . . . you people on the East Side haven't been over rough streets until you have driven up Highland Avenue. Just yesterday while driving up the street we spotted a new Ford . . . beautiful car and then all at once it disappeared . . . we stopped and looked around . . . got out and walked up the street where we last saw the big Ford and sure enough, down in a hole we saw it jumping around. Yes, we hope that plans are being made to cure this situation. And talk about rubber shortage . . . there is enough rubber lost on this street daily and its bumps to make tires for ten automobiles.
